SENATE INVESTIGATIONS.

Bribery Charges Disposed Of And The Sugar Trust Under Fire.

The week has been one of interest in Congress. One of the Senatorial investigations has been completed, the Civil Service has barely escaped repeal at the hands of the Democratic "Spoilsmen" and the investigation of the alleged sugar trust contribution to the Democratic campaign fund has come to a stand still because the witnesses refuse to give the names of the persons furnishing them with information. The fight on the tariff bill in the Senate still continues and there is a wide diversity of opinion among the Republicans as well as the Democratic Senators. Some of the former insist that the Wilson tariff bill can be defeated. They hold that it is better to defeat this bill by killing time than by killing the industries of the country. Others claim that it is best to let the Democrats pass the bill and leave the result to the voters of the country. They say they will settle the matter at once and for years to come. On the other hand the Democratic Senators are in favor of free trade while others would like to be, but dared not. These latter have fought until they have secured the adoption of the 400 amendments which have been offered to the bill. These have been the source of much annoyance to the Democrats for each day the Republicans have taunted them with their departure from the Chicago platform and very bitter personal attacks have been made in many of the short speeches on each of the amendments. Then Senator Hill of New York is outspoken in his opposition to the income tax feature and this has complicated affairs. But a democrat is a Democrat the country over and when Senator Teller moved to table the tariff bill every Democratic Senator voted against it. While not a strictly test vote yet it shows what the party whip can do and it is scarcely possible that any Democratic Senator can be found with courage enough to vote against the bill, no matter how objectionable it may be to him. If the Republicans cannot agree on a plan of action which can defeat the bill, it is the general opinion that it will pass. Politicians are now busying themselves guessing when a vote will be reached and June 15 seems to be the time agreed on by those who claim to know.

The investigation of the attempted bribery by Charles W. Buttz of Senators Hutton and Kyle has ended. The report exonerates the Senators and despite the denials of Buttz finds him to blame. Maj. Buttz, in his testimony denies absolutely all allegations that he directly or indirectly attempted to bribe Senator Hutton. He declares that he went to see Mr. Hutton's son about a case in the land office in which he sought to employ him as attorney. All he said about the tariff was that he thought "the manufacturers would pay him from $25,000 to $50,000 for a vote, and if England had spent $1,000,000 to get a free trade plank in the Chicago platform on which Cleveland was elected they will get it through the Senate." Buttz said he might have said he could get a fee of from $10,000 to $25,000 if he could defeat the bill, but it was only in his imagination. Mr. Buttz denied that he ever promised Senator Kyle a cent. What he said he did tell Kyle was that he (Buttz) could get a thousand dollars fee if he found out how Kyle was going to vote. The man from whom he was to get this was Maj. Harris, a member of the legislature that voted for Senator McPherson. Maj. Harris recently died. The general opinion is that Buttz, if he could have learned how the Senators would vote, meant to trade on it as best he could.

In the sugar trust investigations the committee has made but little progress. The newspaper men who published the story of the campaign fund contribution and the connection which President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle had with it, have refused to give the names of their informants. The Committee has not yet decided to divulge their sources of information, but it is probable they will. The attorney for the newspaper men holds that the proper way for the Committee to find out whether Secretary Carlisle did or said certain things, would be to summon Secretary Carlisle. The proceedings will be at a stand still until a decision is reached by the Committee.

Ex-Speaker Grow has made an address on the repeal of the 10 per cent. tax on State bank circulation. It was listened to with great interest and his remarks were loudly applauded. He said that it was unnecessary for him to go into the history of the State banks and the evils which prevailed under the system. Why go back to a system that had been tried and found to be a source of evil, one that had failed to supply adequate currency in any respect except an elastic one. Speaking of the requirement under the present law and the circulating notes of national banks he said their issues were secured and they passed everywhere. If we should go back to the old system the best of us who handle money could not tell a bank note from a counterfeit. One State bank could not be compelled to take the notes of another State bank. The first crisis that came in the State bank system would overwhelm its profits. Why go back? Why attempt the old system? It was the policy of the Democratic party to undo all that had been done in the last third of a century. It has been well said that the Democratic party was like the passengers on the rear guard of a railroad train—they said nothing until they passed it.

The Democrats made a most vicious attack on the Civil Service law during the week. In the House on the Committee of the Whole they succeeded in striking out the paragraphs in the legislatives executive and judicial appropriation bill carrying appropriations for the salaries of the Commissioners and clerks amounting to $33,940. This result was greeted with loud cheers from the Democratic side and one enthusiast shouted: "Its the first time the Democratic party ever did anything." Most bitter attacks were made on the service especially by Mr. Pendleton, of West Virginia who claimed that the majority of the examining boards were Republican and that they purposely marked down the papers of all the Democratic applicants. But not satisfied with this another West Virginia Member moved to repeal the Civil Service law. The Republicans had read the blank of the Democratic platform of 1892 concerning Civil Service. But they pushed on. The Chairman ruled the motion out of order but the West Virginian appealed. The Chairman was only sustainedby a majority of 7 votes. Such a close call did the Civil Service law have at the hands of its most avowed friends. It is thought, though when the bill in its crippled cones before the House and a yea and nay vote is ordered it will pass. It becomes a matter of record then. Should the House, however, pass the bill in its present amended form the Senate will restore the law to its complete functions.

The investigation into the alleged armor plate frauds by the Carnegie Company of Pitteburg, has been begun. Capt. Sampson, Chief of the Bureau of ordinance, Navy Department, has been the most prominent witness. He reviewed generally the statements by him to the Secretary of the Navy and heretofore submitted to Congress. He told how a Pittsburgh lawyer had called on Secretary Herbert, with two or three men employed by the Carnegies, who stated that they had information that frauds had been practiced on the Government. The Secretary heard their statements. The men making them did not seem to realize their importance. Their gravity convinced the Secretary that the matter should be investigated and sent for him. He was instructed to make the inquiry. It was to be secret, the company and outsiders to know nothing. He said the company was really fined for discovering a method of improving plates which they did not use—that is they used it on one and not on all. It is said that the Republican members of the committee will insist on knowing why the President reduced the fine.

The Harveyized armor plate from the Bethlehem works was cracked by the first Carpenter projectile fired at it. There is one consideration in the test, however, and that is it was a Pennsylvania projectile against a Pennsylvania made plate and the State comes out ahead in either case. Ship builders however, hold that that the experiment was not so successful for the projectile as was held at first and that another test will show the plates to be all right.

In the Senate Mr. Quay has had a bill passed to pay the heirs of John Wightman, of Williamsport, $6,800 for Star route services and Mr. Cameron one for the construction of a bridge by the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. across the Delaware at Philadelphia.

The President has appointed the following Postmasters in Pennsylvania: A. B. Stillwagon, Ambler; George Weber, Port Alleghany; Robert McCann, Elkland; John Toole, Minersville; and M. A. Black, Sheffield.

Little People Who Live Little Lives.

When thou wast little in thine own sight.—I. Samuel, xv., 17.

If you happen to be strolling through the fields at this time of year you are more than likely to run upon a bed of wild violets at the foot of a maple tree in some obscure corner. No other eyes than yours have ever seen them, and no other eyes, perhaps, will ever seen them again, for in a few days their little lives will be ended and they will have whithered.

They have their mission, nevertheless, and who shall say that it is unimportant? They are fashioned in beauty their slender stems bend with grace to the passing breeze; the conical leaves are of an exquisite shade of green, and the purple petals are painted with as kill which no artist can borrow. He who was at the pains to create them was not without a purpose in that act. He had a plan for this wild violet, on which He bestowed no perfume, as well as for the honeysuckle, which fills the air with fragrance. And if it blossoms with fidelity and dies with resignation, as much credit may be accorded to it as will be given to the imperious oak, or the stately elm, which attracts the attention of every traveller.

If you were learned in the language of flowers you might kneel on the sod and hear the complaint of some discontented violet. "I am of no consequence," it might say in despair, "and wonder why I was made. No one knows or cares that I am here. I live, I die; that is all the story I have to relate. No one is better for my coming and no one will miss me when I go."

And yet it is possible that bed of violets, blossoming and withering under the maple, and upon which you have chanced in your aimless stroll, has set you upon serious thoughts. It is an epitome of the universe, as far beyond the reach of your power to make as blazing Arcturus in the evening sky. It is a clew to a thousand mysteries, and all unconsciously to itself it may lead you up the spiral staircase of logic until you lie reverent and prostrate in the awful presence of Deity.

The violet is a type of humanity. We, too, wonder why we are here. We are so small, so insignificant; we can do so little; we are so slenderly gifted; we live such narrow lives and have such meagre influence that we are overwhelmed with disappointment. What does it mean and what does it all amount to? A thousand times we ask the question, and get no answer. If we had conspicuous ability, could sing some song that would be remembered, or paint some picture that would be hung in the galleries of the future, or do some deed that would leave our name as a heritage, our lot would be plainly desirable. Or if, with lower ambition, we could affect the lives of those within the circle of our acquaintance, make them think and see more clearly, temper their souls for nobler tasks, contribute to their comfort and happiness in some essential way, we should feel that there was a purpose in our birth and an object in our lives But to be simply commonplace—an odorless violet under a maple in an obscure corner—it gives us a sinking at the heart and we grow weary and despondent.

How many of us have passed through this experience and reached the conclusion that we are of no value! How many of us have thoughtfully summed up our lives and painfully declared to ourselves that we count for nothing.

But such sighs are based on a mistake. We misinterpret God, and are therefore led astray. We have a plan of our own and wonder why the Almighty does not make His world to conform to it, instead of seeking His plan and persuading our will to conform to that.

In the universe as constituted by Him the humble positions are vastly in the majority. We are neither expected nor asked to do much, but to do a little and do it well. It is not demanded of us that we shall stamp our characters on a generation, since the ability to do so has not been given, but if we keep our narrow house in order, greet the small duties of each coming day with cheerfulness, throw a kindly word to the passerby, drop a penny in the beggar's hat and maintain the calm serenity of a contented heart, the evening shadows will not fail to bring us our reward.

There is but one Niagara, but on every hillside is a rippling rill. As much credit is due to the rivulet that sings as to the cataract that roars—neither more nor less. Each was made for a specific purpose, and each must accomplish that purpose. The rivulet has no right to complain, the cataract no right to be proud. No ability, but excellence, determines the measure of merit.

Only Richard could wield a sword six feet long, but victory in the battle did not depend so much on Richard's sword as on the arrows of his brave army. He could work miracles of valor in single combat, and loud huzzas his deeds of powers, but after all it was the rank and file of stalwart yeomen twanging the bowstring who drove the enemy from the field and planted the banner of England there.

It is always so. The obscure make history when each man does his duty, and human progress is more the result of what takes place in private life than of what our giants do. The world consists of little people, each of whom is doing his little work, but the aggregate influence is an irresistible dynamic force for good. The best men and women are unknown. There is a long list of saints whose names will not be heard until the Day of Judgment—men who have made a hard fight with fate amid surroundings too lowly for recognition, and women who have sacrificed more than any one knows except One.

It is not the smallest of your life, but the quality of it, that is important. You cannot be an oak or an elm, but if you are a violet under a maple, drinking in the sunshine and the dew, you should be content, for in the providence of God humble lives cheerfully lived have infinite value. —New York Herald.

The Fourteenth of June as Flag Day.

In behalf of the effort to make the 14th of June, known as "Flag Day," the Pennsylvania society of the Sons of the Revolution have issued the following:

Whereas, the Continental Congress on the 14th day of June, 1777, passed the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the flag of the thirteen states be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

And whereas, the Pennsylvania society of the Colonial Dames of America have inaugurated the movement to have the 14th day of June known as Flag Day, and the same forever hereafter observed by the display of the American flag from every home in the land.

Therefore resolved, That this Board do heartily endorse the said movement, and earnestly express the hope that every member of this society will display the national flag on said day; and that, with the view of having the day so observed throughout the country, the secretary be directed to transmit copies of this resolution to the President of the United States, the Governors of the States and Territories, the Superintendents of Public Schools, and the various patriotic organizations in Pennsylvania, the Press Associations, the General Society and State Societies of the Sons of the Revolution and the members of this society.

Postal Card Dunning.

The Ithaca Journal says: There is a very general impression among merchants and others who are particularly interested in the subject that it is a criminal offense under United States laws to mail a dunning letter written on a postal card. A person in this neighborhood wrote to the first assistant postmaster general, asking for information, and receiving a reply giving the decision of Judge Thayer, December 14, 1889, on the wording of a postal card that was mailable and one that was not. The mailable one read: "Please call and settle account, which is long past due, and for which our collector has called several times, and oblige." The unmailable one reads: "You owe me $1.80. We have called several times for same. If not paid at once, we shall place with our law agency for collection."

The last sentence, it is stated, ruled out this communication. Postal cards are not mailable if they contain language of "a threatening character," and it is a very serious threat to the average man to tell him that you are going to sue him. There is no law however to prevent you from putting an X on your card to let your debtor understand that you are really cross with him.

From John Shingler, Pastor Trinity M. E. Church, Bloomington, Neb.

I have examined with care the book entitled "Glimpses of America," and most heartily commend it as one of the few books which combine intense interest with new and accurate information. The book itself, from cover to cover, is a thing of beauty; its subject matter fits well our natural curiosity, while its treatment is full and reliable. It will entertain children as well as inform adults, and friends or parents could show no better taste than in presenting such a book to the object of their regard.

WHAT THE COURT SAID.

In Sentencing Thomas Meyer, of Philipsburg, to the Penitentiary.

In the case of the Commonwealth against Thomas Meyers, of Philipsburg, who plead guilty at the April sessions of court to the charge of larceny, on whom sentence was suspended on the promise of good behavior, but who was afterwards caught committing the same crime, arrested and confined in jail, and sentenced on Tuesday, the Court, in pronouncing sentence, thus spoke to the prisoner:

BY THE COURT:—Thomas Meyers, at the last term of Court you pleaded guilty of the crime of larceny. By so doing the evidence of your guilt was not made known to the Court and all he knew of your crime was what transpired in open court. You were indicted with four other young men for a similar offense. They all pleaded guilty without trial. Thus far you indicated to the Court a proper spirit, inviting clemency. After so doing a petition was presented to the Court signed by 23 of your neighbors, asking a suspension of sentence. Among these petitioners were the grand and traverse jurors from Philipsburg. The prosecutors joined also in the petition to the Court, asking suspension of sentence, and to this petition the District Attorney, moved by the appeal of the prosecutors and others, assented to the suspension. He could not have done otherwise under the circumstances. At least so it seemed to him and to us at the time.

Your counsel then stated the circumstances in your favor, saying that you were all young men, industrious and anxious to return to labor. That you had committed the crime when intoxicated, and that you were exceedingly sorry for your crime. That others who were innocent would greatly suffer by your punishment; that you had returned all the property stolen or paid its value to the owners; that you had paid all the costs and expenses of the prosecutors; that you had all made absolute promises of reformation; that you would never again use intoxicating liquors. That they were satisfied that the ends of justice would be best subserved by giving you an opportunity to show your reformation; that under the circumstances it would in all probability strike confirmed criminals of you and your associates if the Court would not accept your assurances, and send you to the penitentiary.

We confess that this appeal moved our hearts in your favor. We believed that you were sincere in your promises, and that reformation could be effected, without further imprisonment, thus saving you the disgrace, and saving the county a very large sum of money, which would have to be paid if five young men were to be imprisoned in the penitentiary on five distinct complaints, in which one or more of you were implicated.

You and the others were entire strangers to at least two members of the court, and perhaps to all of us. We knew nothing of your life, except what we heard in Court.

Under these circumstances most favorable to you, we thought it wise for the time being to suspend sentence, hoping thereby that you would become a good citizen and save yourself from the disgrace of an imprisonment in the penitentiary. We, however, made it an express condition that if you violated your solemn promise to the Court never to drink again and never to engage in any unlawful act, that he would immediately send for you and sentence you according to the degree of your crime.

We, therefore, gave you an opportunity until August court to prove your sincerity.

We now believe that you not only deceived the Court, but that you also deceived your counsel, who could not have made the appeal had they known your true character.

A short time since you again became drunk and again returned to your former habits; you were brought back to jail, when the President Judge was on his way to Huntingdon to hold the regular term of Court there. He immediately notified the Sheriff that you could not be released on bail, that he required you to be held in strict custody under conviction of the first offense. You have, therefore, not only shown to the Court by your subsequent conduct that you are a criminal at heart, that you deceived us, when you professed sorrow for your past crimes; but that you have also returned to drinking.

We cannot overlook or forgive this conduct. Your course deserves punishment, and your punishment should be a warning to you and others that the way of the transgressor is hard.

We, therefore, take off the suspension of sentence in your case and we will now impose such sentence on you as we would before had we known the real facts of your crime.

We will also hold the other cases over your head, and at the expiration of the present sentence, the Court will be able to judge what further should be done. We only suggest to you that it is not yet too late to reform.

And now, June 5, 1894, the sentence of the Court is that you, Thomas Meyer, pay a fine of One dollar, and costs of prosecution, and that you undergo an imprisonment by separate and solitary confinement at hard labor in the Western Penitentiary in Allegheny City, county of Allegheny, Pa., for a period of three years. The sentence of the Court in No. 6, is that you Thomas Meyer pay a fine of one dollar, and costs of prosecution and that you undergo an imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary by separate and solitary confinement at hard labor for a period of two years, this sentence to take effect immediately after the expiration of sentence No. 3, April s. s., 1894.

THE BOARD OF TRADE.

Little Business to Transact—Election of Officers Postponed.

Only fourteen members were present at the regular monthly meeting of the Bellefonte Board of Trade on Tuesday evening. President Harris being absent Mr. Edward K. Rhoads was elected president pro tem. for the evening. Secretary Clement Dale read the minutes of the last regular meeting, which were approved as read. The Secretary then stated that the one thousand copies of the Keystone Gazette industrial edition purchased at the last meeting of Mr. McMonigal for sixty dollars, were as yet most all on hand, and asked the sense of the Board as to the proper distribution of the same. It seemed to be the general opinion of every one present that the Board had unfortunately come into possession of an elephant and didn't exactly know what to do with it. Of course, it don't eat anything, but just what to do to realize the first cost of same, the sixty dollars, is the perplexing question.

There were no reports of regular committees.

For the special committee appointed to see what could be done toward raising sufficient money to organize a company for the manufacture of the Marble House heating steam and [illegible] A. C. Curtin reported that sufficient money had been raised to warrant going ahead and that four boilers were now in course of construction. Mr. Maitland, who was present, stated that he expected to have a boiler completed in about ten days when he would set it up in his shop and give it a thorough practical test.

Tuesday evening was the regular evening for the election of officers for the ensuing year but, owing to the very small attendance, on motion of Dr. Parrish the election was postponed until the first Tuesday evening in July, when it is hoped every member will be present. Several other questions of minor importance were discussed after which the Board adjourned.

$796,66 A Word.

Almost every driver is familiar with the famous sign of the railroad: "Stop, Look and Listen" which is placed on grade crossings along their lines. Comparatively few know the real significance of these few brief words. The three brief words cover the legal points admirably. The rule of the—stream and pike—is that a teamster or driver must stop, look and listen for an approaching train. Previous to the advent of McLeod the Reading company used an old sign, "Beware of the Engine and Cars," followed by a series of injunctions that no man walking over the road would have patience to read. There were several accidents which brought the company into the Supreme court, and the sharp lawyers opposed to the company claimed that these signs were not a clear warning. McLeod went to Judge Paxson, who wrote out this admirable sign, "Railroad Crossing—Stop, Look and Listen." Mr. Paxson received for this modest composition the sum of $4.780, a trifle over $796,66 a word, a higher rate than any author has ever received in the past. It can fairly lay claim to being the most expensive composition on record, and shows the value of brevity as nothing else could show it.

They Want It Extended.

The farmers in Stone Creek and Shavers Creek valleys are discussing the probability of a railroad. A railroad is to be extended from State College to Pine Grove, and it is only a question of time until the road will be extended from Pine Grove to Huntingdon, either by way of Stone Creek or Shavers Creek. The people of Huntingdon should be alert to their interest in the construction of this road, which will give us an outlet to the Beech Creek railroad.—Huntingdon News.

—Sunday was the first real nice day we have had for several weeks. It was warm and pleasant all day, but it could not pass the night through without raining.

A BAD RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

Terrible Wreck on the Wisconsin Central Yesterday Morning.

Marsfield, Wis., May 30.—An accident resulting in the loss of eight lives and the injury of from fifteen to twenty persons, more or less seriously, occurred here at 3.15 o'clock. The morning train on the Wisconsin Central railway ran through an open switch and was completely wrecked. The cars afterwards took fire and were consumed. Four persons were taken from the wreck dead and four others are missing, supposed to have been caught in the mass of broken timber and consumed. Among the dead are the engineer, fireman and brakeman. Medical aid was summoned and the injured are being cared for here. Several of the wreck victims can hardly survive their injuries. The forward car took fire in a very few minutes after the wreck occurred and were soon a mass of flames. The conductor succeeded in uncoupling the sleeper and another car and had them moved out of danger. The accident, according to appearance, must be attributed to design. An examination discloses the fact that a nut had been removed from the switch, causing it to get loose and throw the train from the track. Among the dead are Engineer Hubbard, Fireman Gearhart, Brakeman Biglow, and a civil engineer named William B. Russel, aged 24, who was in the employ of the company.

Charged with Murder.

Lewistown, Pa., May 19.—To-day Samuel Mook was lodged in jail, charged with the murder of his father, Elias Mook, aged about 70 years, who was buried on February 24. There had been a quarrel in the family and suspicion of foul play being aroused, the body was exhumed. It showed the marks of a knife incision in the breast and bruises about the head. A post mortem examination revealed the fact that Mook had not died from natural causes and the verdict of the coroner's was that he died from external violence at the hands of parties unknown. It is regarded here as a murder resulting from a family fight.

A Napoleon of Finance.

A Lancaster gentleman, in order to impress business methods on his son early in life, recently told the youngster that if he would see that the gas bill was paid before a certain date each quarter he could have the discount for himself. The youngster took very kindly to the idea, and captured the discount each time the bill came in. To his father's surprise, however, the gas bill began to increase at a remarkable rate. He found one night that his son had been burning gas all over the top of the house from 10 o'clock until 6 the next morning. The youth had become a Napoleon of finance and had discovered the fact that the bigger the bill the bigger the discount.

Jefferson's Big Man.

The Brookville Jeffersonian notes the following: Thomas Pifer, of Henderson township, is the biggest man in Jefferson county, and probably larger than any one in any county adjoining Jefferson. His weight is 353 pounds. He measures 54 inches around the waist and 66 inches around the abdomen. His health is good and he would be able to work every day were it not for his excessive flesh. He was born in Jefferson county, and has lived nearly all his life in Paradise settlement, Henderson township. About the only exercise he takes is driving in a buggy. It takes 4½ yards of cloth to make him a pair of pants.

G. A. R. at Gettysburg.

Arrangements for the semi-annual G. A. R. summer encampment at Gettysburg from June 30th to July 6th, inclusive, are progressing. The Department Commander, Emsley, in general orders, says: A sufficient number of tents will be pitched on Cemetery Hill for the use of posts, and, as heretofore, will be liberally supplied with fresh straw. Comrades who propose going into camp will provide themselves with blankets and the general equipage essential for comfort. Posts will report to these headquarters before June 10th the number of comrades requiring tents. The camp will be arranged as heretofore, and those posts that have had favorite places will be accorded the same at the coming encampment. For those comrades for whom the camping out would be a physical distress, ample and satisfactory accommodations can be had at the hotels, boarding houses and private residences of Gettysburg.

MAY RESORT TO TROOPS.

The Militia May Yet Be Called to Restore Order in Fayette County.

HARRISBURG, May 30.—Governor Pattison to-day received a letter from Sheriff Wilhelm, of Fayette county, in which the sheriff details at length the various conflicts caused by the striking coke workers, several of which resulted in the death of persons and injury to many others. He informed the governor that the strikers march in large bodies, in some instances 1,000 in number, and that owing to the large number and the dangerous character of the mobs it is extremely difficult to secure posses equal to the emergencies. He regards the situation as critical and communicates these facts to the governor that the latter may understand the necessity for prompt action.

The governor replied at once, informing the sheriff that he has issued a proclamation which should be posted conspicuously throughout the county. The proclamation declares that riotous demonstration exist in various sections of Fayette county which threatens lives and property and which the civil authorities are unable to suppress; commends all persons engaged in such demonstration to disperse, warning them that persistence in violation will compel resort to military force to compel obedience of the laws.

Leg Broken.

On Friday afternoon of last week, we are informed, Mr. David Krape, a well known citizen of Haines township, went to the mountain to chop some wood, without having informed his family of his intentions. In felling a tree it lodged against another one, and he climbed up with an axe to cut it loose, when the whole business went down and he was pinned down by the limbs.

Cutting himself out, he found himself with a leg broken below the knee, and unable to locomote. He lay there three hours and his cries were at times heard by persons, but without suspicion of anything wrong, until Mrs. Bressler followed it up and found him. She summoned aid and he was carried home. The leg was broken below the knee.

But for the circumstance Mr. Krape might have perished, as no one knew where he had gone to and search for him might have been made in entirely different localities.

MARY A. TUPPER

IN A WOMAN'S PRISON.

Restored to Her Husband at Wilton, Me., After Months of Suffering.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Women's prisons are not always built of iron bars and solid masonry. It is easy to shut women up from the beautiful, joyous world without these means.

Mrs. Mary A. Tupper has been released at Wilton, Me., from the custody of extreme female weakness and nervousness which kept her a prisoner in bed, unable to walk.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound went to the root of her trouble, and gave her the liberty of health, so that after taking two bottles she was able to go out of doors and surprise her husband and friends by her rapid improvement.

She says: "Women should beware of dizziness, sudden faintness, backache, extreme lassitude and depression. They are danger signals of female weakness, or some derangement of the uterus or womb. Take Lydia E. Pinknam's Vegetable Compound, and be thankful for your life as I am. It only costs a dollar to try it, and the result is worth millions. Ask some druggist about it."

PASTE THIS BESIDE HICKS.

The Month of Roses, or Prophet Foster's Predictions.

Several days ago we printed Hicks' weather predictions for the month of June. We herewith give Foster's prognostications and our readers can place them side by side and then watch which one will come nearest being correct. Foster says:

My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from the 27th to 31st, and the next will reach the Pacific coast about the 31st, cross the western mountains by the close of June 1, the great central valleys from June 2 to 4, and the eastern states about the 5th.

Very warm weather will precede this disturbance and the storm center will increase in force in and east of the great central valleys from June 2 to 5.

The second disturbance of June will reach the Pacific coast about the 6th, cross the western mountains by the close of 7th, the great central valleys from 8th to 10th, and the eastern states about the 11th. It will attain its greatest force east of the Mississippi about the 10th.

Warm waves will cross the western mountains about May 31 and June 6, the great central valleys about June 2 and 9, and the eastern states about 4th and 10th. Cool waves will cross the western mountains about June 3 and 9, the great central valleys about 5th and 11th, and eastern states about 7th and 13th.

The temperature of June will be near the general average, the first half of the month warmest. Rainfall will be above the average, except immediately east of the Rocky mountains.

About the 3d or 4th is the danger period. Earthquakes are caused by the same forces that cause tornadoes. These pent up forces sometimes find vent through an earthquake, and sometimes through the tornado. Tornadoes and earthquakes usually occur at the same time, but when the earthquake is great the tornado is small and weak, and when the latter is great the force of the earthquake is lessened. Electricity is the force; the earth becomes overcharged, or positively charged and the only relief is by electricity passing off into space. This must occur through low barometers, which are of all grades, from a gentle disturbance to a tornado.

This means of escape from the earth is called convection, because the electricity forces are conveyed away on the particles of matter, not continuous, that compose the storm center. Where electricity is conducted through continuous matter, as a copper wire, it is called conduction.

Relief by earthquake is neither convection nor conduction, but is similar to lightning between clouds where the electricity tears its way through matter, destroying the medium rather than being conveyed on or being conducted by it.

The disturbance of June 3 or 4 is expected to find relief through a great earthquake in some earthquake country rather than by tornado in some tornado country.

Memorial at Howard.

The Memorial services on Decoration day at Howard were conducted by Grove Brothers' Post, No. 262. The Post, headed by the Howard band, and followed in the procession by a number of societies and a large number of citizens and Sunday school children, paraded the main streets of the town and arrived in the cemetery at two o'clock. Here the regular order of services was gone through with, being conducted by J. E. Pheasant, Post Commander. The orator of the day was delivered by Hon. A. O. Furst who made an able and eloquent address. A brief speech was also made by Hon. John A. Woodward, and the services closed with music by the choir.

—On Tuesday, the 29th day of May Ex-Governor Curtin and his estimable wife celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage. On account of their late domestic affliction no formal celebration of the happy event was held, but in the evening a number of relatives and intimate friends gathered informally at the Governor's home on High street and spent the evening most delightfully with the bride and groom of fifty years ago. Many pleasant and congratulatory messages were also received from friends at a distance.

—Now that Decoration day is over the next event to look forward to is the Fourth of July, that day which is so widely celebrated by every patriotic American citizen. So far as now known there will be no general celebration of this eventful day in Bellefonte, but the Y. M. C. Therefore, if you want a good time on the Fourth, make your arrangements to spend it with the Y. M. C. A. at Hunter's Park.

A NARROW ESCAPE!

How it Happened.

The following remarkable event in a lady's life will interest the reader: "For a long time I had a terrible pain at my heart, which fluttered almost incessantly. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I would be compelled to sit up in bed and belch gas from my stomach until I thought every minute would be my last. There was a feeling of oppression about my heart, and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I couldn't sweep a room without sitting down and resting; but, thank God, by the help of New Heart Cure all that is past and I feel like another woman. Before using the New Heart Cure I had taken different so-called remedies and been treated by doctors without any benefit until I was both discouraged and disgusted. My husband bought me a bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and am happy to say I never regretted it, as I now have a splendid appetite and sleep well. I weighed 125 pounds when I began taking the remedy, and now I weigh 130½. Its effect in my case has been truly marvelous. It far surpasses any other medicine I have ever taken or any benefit I ever received from physicians."—Mrs. Harry Starr, Pottsville, Pa., October 12, 1892.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. This great discovery by an eminent specialist in heart diseases, contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

APPROPRIATELY OBSERVED.

Decoration Day Exercises in Bellefonte. A Large Turnout and a Fine Oration.

Fragrant aftermath of sorrow, tender second thought of strife, faithful servitor of memory is Memorial Day and its annual appearance again found the graves of a nation "Sweet with all the flowers of May." Wednesday was ushered in with falling rain as if the heavens, too, mourned for the thousands of heroes that day to be so fittingly remembered and honored and was shedding tears of sorrow over the graves of the gallant soldier dead. Toward noon the clouds shifted and the sun shone forth for a brief spell and it looked as if it might be a fair afternoon, but it soon clouded up again and the day throughout was a disagreeable, dreary one.

The decoration ceremonies in Bellefonte were conducted under the auspices of Gregg Post, No. 95, G. A. R. Promptly at 2 o'clock the parade formed in the diamond in the following order: Bellefonte band, carriage containing Gen. D. H. Hastings and Rev. Charles M. Stock, the orator of the day; Company B, Gregg Post, Coleville band, Bellefonte and Washington Camps of the P. O. S. of A., and the Bellefonte Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, the rear being brought up by citizens until the crowd all together numbered more than a thousand. The parade moved promptly at 15 o'clock out Allegheny street and east on Howard street to the cemetery, massing in a solid square near the grave of Col. Potter.

The usual opening exercises were gone through with by Post Commander Thos. Danachy, after which there was an ode by a quartette composed of Messrs. C. C. Shuey, A. Lukenbach, George Smith and Walter Whippo. Prayer by the chaplain followed then a dirge by the Bellefonte band. This was followed by the decoration of four graves in honor of all deceased soldiers and sailors, the decorating being done by Chaplain David Bartley, R. C. Iryin, T. R. Benner and C. P. Stonerode. The quartette sang another ode and then followed the decoration of all soldiers' and sailors' graves.

The custom of laying flowers upon the bier is an old one—born of the tender desire to gather that which is most beautiful and fragrant about the beloved clay, while yet it is for a little time ours to honor and which but now was the tabernacle of a life that came no one knows whence, and has gone no one knows whither. Instigated perhaps by the same feeling, further inspired by patriotism and gratitude to make public acknowledgement of a great service at the hands of those who died that the nation might live, came the present observance of Memorial Day. Though first an impulse, the custom of decorating graves upon the 30th day of May has become a growth that each year strikes its roots deeper in the hearts of the people. Watered by the springs of human love, nurtured by memory in its tenderest mood, Memorial Day has in less than a score of years become well established among the customs of the nation, and may almost be said to take rank among its institutions. And so the old soldiers, with their wives and their children, scattered garlands of flowers over the graves of all alike The floral offerings on Wednesday were most profuse and exceptionally handsome and appropriate.

From the cemetery the procession marched back to the court house to hear the address of the day, the weather being too inclement to admit of its being delivered in the cemetery. The meeting in the court house was opened with music by the band followed with an invocation by Rev. J. A. Woodcock. General Hastings was then called and responded with a brief address in which he paid a glowing tribute to the departed, as well as the living soldier. He closed by introducing the orator of the day, Chaplain Stock, of the Pennsylvania National Guard. Rev. Stock is not a large man and comparatively young in years but the address delivered by him was one of the best every heard in Bellefonte. His manner and style are forcible and eloquent, and he holds the closest attention of his listeners from start to finish. Being a gentleman of culture and travel, he has at his tongue's end statistics and incidents of not only all the wars of this continent, but those of other lands which have taken place in the past century and a half. His word picture of the difference between the American soldier and the soldier of foreign governments fully told the story of the great love of country of the American citizen. The address from beginning to end was a masterly production and would have to be heard to be fully appreciated.

THE DAY AT MILESBURG.

Wednesday morning Dr. Geo. L. Potter Post, No. 261, of Milesburg, accompanied by the Milesburg Cornet band proceeded to the Advent cemetery in Boggs township where they held Memorial exercises. From there they went to Fairyiew to do like honor for the soldier dead. At both these places the address was delivered by Rev. J. C. Young, of Pleasant Gap. In the afternoon the Post went to Curtin's and held services in the cemetery at that place then returned and conducted the service in Milesburg. In the latter place they were assisted by the Odd Fellows, the Lodge of American Merchanics and the M. E. Sunday School. The Baptist Sunday School also contributed many flowers for the occasion. The services being at 4.30 and as it was then raining very hard, the stay at the cemetery was only long enough to decorate the graves, the rest of the exercises being gone through with the Baptist church where the address was also delivered. Rev. Geo. E. Zehner, the Evangelical minister of Bellefonte, was the speaker and made an able and eloquent oration. Rev. Zehner also spoke at Curtins at 2 o'clock.

Death of John Potter Moore.

Early on Tuesday morning John Potter Moore died at his home in Lemont after an illness of only a few days. On Saturday last Mr. Moore was stricken with paralysis and, notwithstanding the best medical skill attainable was brought to his aid he could not recover from the death-dealing stroke, but lingered along, growing weaker and weaker until the time above named when, as gently and peacefully as the sunshine fades from the hillside at the close of a bright summer day, the last vital spark of life fled, the silver thread of existence was rent in twain and the spirit of Mr. Moore had passed from this world of mortality into the realms of the immortal beyond.

Deceased was aged 63 years, 11 months and 24 days. He was born at Houserville, Centre county, where he lived to grow to man's estate. All his life had been spent within a radius of a few miles of his birthplace. Early in life Mr. Moore became a member of the Presbyterian church, and for many years has been a very efficient and able elder. He was a most worthy and devoted christian man; his whole life being filled with charitable thoughts and acts for his fellowmen. His devotion to his family and friends, his sterling honesty and the high and manly standard of honor, which prompted and controlled all his actions, caused him to be respected, loved and admired by all who knew him. The loss to the community in which he lived will not soon be replaced.

There is left to mourn his death a wife and eight interesting children, three daughters and five sons, as follows: Margaret, wife of James D. McKee, of this place; Robert, of Philipsburg; Grace, Maud, John, Frank, Charles and Potter, all of whom will greatly miss the loving husband and father, their wise counselor and their truest friend and confidant. We deeply sympathize with the family in this sad hour of their bereavement.

Y. M. C. A. Building Movement in This State.

The fact that a large number of buildings are being put up for the work of the Young Men's Christian Association, goes to prove that the work is being recognized more than ever by business men, who believe it to be an excellent institution in which to invest their money. Since October 1st, '93, four new buildings have been opened in the state; at Pennsylvania Railroad department, Philadelphia, North-East branch, Philadelphia, Coatesville and McKeesport.

The Coatesville association dedicated its new building Feb. 27th, free of debt, raising $15,000 on the day of dedication.

At McKeesport, May 10th, Gen. Beaver made the address at the dedication of the splendid $40,000 building.

Mauch Chunk will soon dedicate their new building costing $50,000.

The association at Warren expects to erect a $40,000 building this summer. On May 14th, ground was broken for the new building at Reading, when completed it will represent, including lot, an investment of $70,000. At Butler a building canvass is being made and soon the association will be in its own home.

Very Prompt Payment.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., May 26th, 1894.

To the Brooklyn Life Insurance Company of New York:

GENTLEMEN:—

The death of my late husband, Dr. J. W. Rhone, who was insured in your company under Policy No, 16582, gives me the personal knowledge as to how promptly you meet your obligations.

Your check for One Thousand Dollars ($1,000) has this day been handed me by your agent, Mr. Weaver, being payment in full, sixty days before due, without discount, for above stated Policy.

The date of your check shows it to have been drawn immediately upon your receipt of the proofs of death, and in advance of all the other companies—five in number—in which my husband was insured.

I thank you for your promptness, and commend your excellent company to all.

Yours truly,

(Signed) CAROLINE E. RHONE.

Is Known in Kansas.

Mr. W. D. McCormick, who is a particular friend of General Daniel H. Hastings, recently nominated by acclamation, for governor of Pennsylvania on the Republican ticket, says the General will carry the state by a larger majority than any governor in the state's history. Like Blaine' he is wonderful magnetic and extremely popular with all classes. His public addresses are masterly efforts, and he has a superb presence—standing six feet two weighing 225 pounds and handsome as an Apollo.—Wichita, Kan., Sunday Eagle.

Flag Day.

The Pennsylvania society of the Sons of the Revolution is sending out resolutions requesting that on June 14 all citizens display the national flag. This request is made in accordance with the action of the Pennsylvania society of the Colonial Dames of America, which has inaugurated the movement to have the 14th day of June known as Flag day, and that forever hereafter it be observed by the display of the American flag from every home in the land.

GLIMPSES OF AMERICA.

From the "Medical Brief," St. Louis, Missouri.

"Mr. Buel is America's most eloquent descriptive writer, and we do not hesitate to pronounce "Glimpses of America" his crowning effort. It contains five hundred grand photographs of American scenery, and eight cameragraphs in natural colors. In producing these scenes in their natural colors, all the sublimity and grandeur of the scene is made intensely realistic. Imagine such views in their natural colors: "Winter in Florida," "Natural Bridge of Virginia," "Winter at Niagara," "A Cactus Garden of Southern California," "Hell Gate," "Ausable Chasm," "Bay of Sitka, Alaska," "Cliffs of the Grand Canon of the Colorado," "Shoshone Tunnel," and "Canon of the Grand River."

"This diversified list of the grand and beautiful in the aggregation of our country's scenic wonders will show the apportunity for artistic coloring, which the camera has so faithfully and so splendidly transferred to the printed sheet. This is the first time the scenes of our own country have been represented in photographs, and the only time that objects have been presented by photographs in their natural colors. The extent, variety and precision of the information furnished in the text matter is not limited to short and unsatisfactory foot notes under the illustrations, but it pervades the whole work, and expands into an amount of reading matter surpassing the contents of the largest volumes, and is laudably written."

Part 1, of this valuable work is now on exhibition at this office, where it can be seen by anyone desiring to examine it. It can be obtained by bringing one conpon cut from this paper and ten cents in coin. They are going fast and if you want one, you should come at once.

Almost Drowned.

On Tuesday afternoon about six o'clock two little boys, one white the other colored, were fishing in Spring creek just above the Lewisburg railroad bridge. The colored lad, aged only about six years, left his rod slip from his hand into the water. In attempting to recover the same he lost his balance and fell head foremost into the creek which at that place took the little fellow over the head. He struggled to get back to shore but in vain. His young companion was unable to do anything for him but fortunately at this moment Miss Clare Saylor, an employee in this office, happened along on her way home from work and nothing daunted she bravely waded into the water to the depth of two feet and succeeded in holding the child until his brother Miles, who was near, came to the rescue and brought the boy safe to land. When recovered he was so far gone as to be unable to stand and the water ran in streams from his mouth and nostrils. He was all right, however, in a few minutes and, save a severe wetting and the unpleasant experience, none the worse for his involuntary bath and narrow escape from drowning.

—Mr. George L. VanTries to-day received a draft of $8,000 in favor of Mrs. J. W. Rhone, as insurance on the life of her husband in the Supreme Order of the Royal Arcanum in which beneficial order her husband was a member. This kind of insurance is the kind the poor man ought to carry. It does not cost half what the regular life insurance does to keep up and is just as good when it does come.

Saw Mill Burned.

On Tuesday night the saw mill owned by P. B. Crider & Son, of this place, and located at Lamar, was totally destroyed by fire. It is not known how the fire originated. The loss will be about five thousand dollars, on which there is an insurance of $2,500.

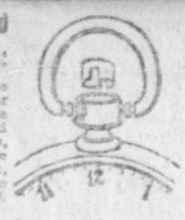
How-pull-out

BOW (RING)

it is easy to steal or ring watches from the pocket. The thief gets the watch in one hand, the chain in the other and, gives a short, quick jerk—the ring slips on the watch stem, and away goes the watch, leaving the victim only the chain.

This idea stopped that little game:



The bow has a groove on each end. A collar runs down inside the pendant (stem) and fits into the grooves, firmly locking the bow to the pendant, so that it cannot be pulled or twisted off.

MINERS AND OPERATORS.

Reports of Situation in Various States Regarding the Strike.

Denver, Colo., June 3.—Detectives assisted Sheriff Bowers to-day in a search for John Calderwood, president of the Victor Miners' union, who came up from Colorado Springs with Governor Waite at an early hour this morning. When the party arrived Calderwood was taken into a carriage with the governor and conveyed to some secluded place, which no one but the governor's party knows. Sheriff Bowers arrived at daylight with a warrant for Calderwood's arrest upon the charge of inciting to riot. He had not been arrested in Colorado Springs because then he was the governor's guest.

A detective shadowed governor Waite all day in the hope that they might find their man, but at night Sheriff Bowers had to return without the head official of the miners, now in a belligerent attitude. About the governor's office the populist there declared that the arrest of Calderwood would only add fuel to the hatred of the miners and would make a contest all the more bloodthirsty. Calderwood came under a flag of truce, they declare, and should not be subjected to arrest. But the civil authorities look upon the man not as a belligerent but as an accomplice in a conspiracy that has already resulted in highway robbery, arson, destruction of property and murder.

Governor Waite said to-day that he had taken no official action and it is not believed that he will declare martial law, a point which is declared to be illegal. Strong pressure has steadily been brought to bear upon him to get him to agree to back up Sheriff Bowers with the militia, a move he is loth to make.

When Governor Waite reached Palmer ake he sent the following telegram to Adjutant General Tarsney, thinking that Sheriff Bowers had made the above request for troops:

Palmer Lake, June 2.—To General Tarsney, or officer in command Armory: No national guards must be called out by Hogle or Kinkaid.

[Signed] DAVID H. WAITE,
Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

Operators to Resume To-day.

Philadelphia, June 3.—The crisis in the great coal strike will doubtless be reached by Monday or Tuesday of this week. Mine operators in Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana, Illinois and Iowa have proclaimed that they will resume work with new men, amply armed and guarded, on Monday. They will import negroes from the south to the Hocking valley, in Ohio, where the miners are said to have armed themselves with nearly 5,000 repeating rifles for such an emergency.

To forestall such a serious crisis as this, it is said that President McBride and other leaders of the strikers will on Tuesday declare the contest off in all sections of the country, except those controlled by the determined operators at Springfield, Ill., and St. Louis, Mo. The object of this move will be, with the aid of the American Railway union, to boycott the Springfield and St. Louis operators.

Nine entire companies of the Indiana National Guard were ordered to Cannelsburg, Ind., and vicinity yesterday to overawe and put down the violent strikers, who have held trains, torn up tracks and begun building fortifications.

The Cleveland, Lorain and Wheeling railroad is tied up by strikers at Bridgeport, O., and Governor McKinley has been asked to call out troops.

In the Pennsylvania coke region hundreds of the strikers are anxious to return to work, but the operators refuse to reemploy them. There will be attempts made in the Clearfield region to start up various mines on Monday, and a lively encounter with strikers is anticipated. Many strikers, however, seem inclined to accept the terms of the operators and go back to work.

The talk of a sympathy strike of 125,000 anthracite miners is declared to be ridiculous.

Cruel Practical Joke.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 3.—A cruel practical joke was played upon the family of James S. Anderson, of this city. The wife received a telegram on Friday that her husband had been killed in a viaduct in Cincinnati. The family was thrown into the deepest grief and crape was hung on the door. Saturday morning Mr. Anderson arrived from the west and, finding crape on his own door, inquired with anxiety of the neighbors whether his wife or one of his children was dead. The telegram was explained and he immediately opened the door and confronted his wife so suddenly that she swooned. Mr. Anderson says he must be the victim of a practical joke, as the telegram was signed by one of his western friends, and stated that the body was on the way east.

The Situation Unchanged,

Houtzdale, June 3.—The condition of the miners' strike remains unchanged in this place. Indications are evident, however, that the operators are determined to maintain their part of the contest as long as there is any possibility of success.

The small operators, supplying house fuel, are employing a number of the unemployed miners, but the larger portion are whiling their time away, sitting on the street corners, while some one of their number reads the latest reports from the daily papers.

A commissary department, to aid the poorer miners, has been established.

Several of the merchants have stopped conducting their business on the credit plan and are now running a strictly cash business.

Business is almost at a standstill, as numbers of the business men do not care to do business when there is no immediate prospect of receiving consideration therefor.

All, or nearly all, the salaried and day men of the company are at work. Every one is eager for the speedy termination of the strike and the resumption of business.

An Assistant Postmaster Resigns,

Washington June 3.—Second Assistant Postmaster J Lowrie Bell has tendered his resignation to the president through the postmaster general to take effect at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, in order to accept the position of general traffic manager of the Central Railway company of New Jersey with headquarters at New York. His resignation was purely voluntarily. The president and the postmaster general looked upon the office of second assistant postmaster from purely business point of view, and notified those who were moving for Mr. Bell's removal that no change would be made in the office unless Mr. Bell himself so elected. The postmaster general even now is reluctant to accept the resignation; but the retiring officer says that while he leaves with regret he cannot afford to refuse a position the muneration of which is considerably more than his present salary.

Injured While Coasting

Impure Blood Asserts Itself

But Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures the Disease and Restores Health.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"During the winter of 1887, I was injured on one limb while coasting. It did not trouble me much at first, but soon became more painful, my strength began to decline and I could not rest at night. I was attended by several different doctors but all failed to check the trouble and I grew rapidly worse. Early in 1890 I had to use crutches and my health was very poor, having lost my appetite and being reduced in flesh. In the fall of 1891 I had to take to my bed and it was thought

I Would Not Live

until spring. During all this time I had tried many different medicines but did get relief. In the meantime to give me relief, the several bunches around my knee were lanced and later every effort made to heal the running sores but all in vain. Then it was, while confined to my bed last spring, that my father, having read much about the merits of Hood's Sarsaparilla, decided to have me give it a trial. I have taken it regularly, using nearly ten bottles. All the sores but two are healed and these are nearly well. I have thrown away my crutches as I can walk, go to school and do some work. I have a good appetite and real good health and have increased in weight very much. Hood's Sarsaparilla has been a blessing to me." WILLIAM JOHNSON, Normanville, Pennsylvania.

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla CURES

THE MINERS' POINT OF VIEW.

What the President and Secretary Treasurer Have to Say.

Columbus, O., June 4.—The following special bulletin to the miners, was issued from the national headquarters to-day.

The wisdom of our having notified you to pay no attention to newspaper reports has been evidenced by the sensational matter appearing in the daily papers the past week to effect that the suspension was to be declared off; the local settlements on the best terms obtainable would be permitted; that private letters and telegrams from your president and secretary had been sent to interested parties informing them that the miners would soon be at work, and a great number of other equally silly and false statements. You must bear in mind that the president and secretary of this organization possess no power but that is delegated to them in their official capacities by constitutional provisions and by resolutions adopted by national conventions, and that no attempt will be made to overstep our privileges.

During the past week your national president, with three members of the national board, were at Springfield, Ill., trying to arrange with the operators of that state for a settlement of differentials in price as between the various sections of that state, prior to attempting a general settlement of the present contests in all stations. The operators failed to reach an agreement among themselves, because Mr. Ridgley, president of the Consolidated Coal company, refused to confer either with the operators separately or with operators and miners jointly. The Consolidated owns eighty-one mines.

The Southern Illinois and Western Pennsylvania folks are giving us the hardest fight, and but for them a general settlement along the line of our demands could readily be secured. It was the cause of the difficulty connected with the two fields named that we believed it wise to call the national board members and district presidents together to-morrow for consultation. It will be remembered that the Cleveland convention decided to hold no more conventions, and places the entire control and settlement of the issues involved in the present movment in the hands of the national board and district presidents, and you may rest assured that nothing will be done that is not in keeping with the situation and your best interests.

There is no break in our ranks and there need be none if you keep the peace and recognize the law. The holding up of trains and the obstruction of railroad traffic by large bodies of miners has resulted in not only bringing the militia into action but in turning the tide of public opinion against us to an extent almost disheartening to us, and we say to you candidly that regardless of the provocation you may have, such work means defeat to our cause, hence you must stop such work.

[Signed] JOHN MCBRIDE,
President and M. W.
P. MCBRYDE, Secretary-Treasurer.

At Cripple Creek.

Cripple Creek, Col., June 4.—A skirmish took place to-day near Midland toll gate between three striking coal miners and five deputy sheriffs, who were sent out from the main body in Divide as pickets. Several shots were fired on both sides. Jack David, a miner, was shot in the arm and a deputy sheriff was seriously wounded. The deputies were forced to retreat.

The striking miners were confident that they would be attacked some time to-day. All men not necessary to guard approaches to Bull Hill, their stronghold, and forage for supplies had been massed about the fortifications, and their number is a little more than 1,800. Last night hundreds of beer kegs were filled with water and stored in the fort. The towns of Victor, Anaconda, Mountain City and other places are in possession of the strikers. The plan is to make as strong a stand as possible against the deputies, and if necessary retreat to Bull Hill. M. E. Woods, president of the Woods Investment company, was taken at 9 o'clock last night by a large body of strikers and carried up to the fort on Bull Hill. His wife was present when he was taken. The men told her that she need not worry, as they would free Mr. Woods in the morning. Business men are gaeatly alarmed. The cause of the kidnapping is not known.

Beside taking Mr. Woods prisoner, the strikers last night seized Clarence O. Finey, county superintendent of schools, and D. E. Watkins, a Colorado school teacher, and they are now held prisoners on Bull Hill, as hostages for President Calderwood or any other miners who may be arrested.

John Shorten, editor of the Cripple Creek Herald, organ of the miners' union, has been arrested by the deputies.

What Miners Say.

It has been repeatedly stated by certain operators at the expense of all honor and truth that the miners in this State had no actual grievance.

Such assertions by these interested parties is generally allowed to go for what they are worth. The miners have a grievance and that grievance is such that their very existence is staked upon it, as it is either fight or starve. The miners of this State, as well as of other States, have been called upon to submit to reductions both unnecessary and uncalled for brought about an unbusiness-like and outrageous cut-throat competition, a competition condemned and repudiated by honorable operators themselves. In Clearfield County where the writer hails from, and others can easily be found in like condition, they have been reduced from their at best meagre wages 10 cents, from 45 cents per net ton of 2000 pounds to 35 cents, with every indication of still further reductions. Under these circumstances no unbiased writer can distort these facts as to impress the public that they have no grievance.

Even Governor Pattison, in his investigation of the miners' situation at Houtzdale, publicly gives forth his finding as regards the reductions they have had to submit to.

My object in writing is simply to have both sides of the question truthfully presented; then let the public judge accordingly.

But such pandering to capital, so generally indulged in by a large portion of the press of this country, is, to say the least, greatly to be deplored, and can only result and that is the estrangement of the people from its teachings. Without digression, allow me to state, as a workingman, that the great disruption in party politics in 1892 was in a measure brought about by such baleful and pernicious influences.

Here I leave the case, only wishing to have due recognition extended to all parties. FAIRPLAY.

YOUNG GIRL SUICIDES.

Her Parents Objected to Her Marrying on Account of Her Youth.

Newark, N. J., June 4.—Hedwih Hubach, aged 18 years, died at the city hospital at noon to-day from the effects of a dose of carbolic acid taken with suicidal intent, because her parents objected to her receiving the attentions of Fred Winkler. The Hubachs are comfortably situated and lavish everything that money could buy on their daughter. She was decidedly pretty and accomplished and consequently had many admirers. Her parents did not object until they learned that her affection for Winkler had ripened into love and that the couple was seriously contemplating matrimony. To this the girl's parents objected on account of her youth and when she refused to be guided by their choice they issued strict orders that Winkler should call at the house no more. Winkler ceased calling at the house, but the lovers frequently met clandestinely.

They arranged to meet yesterday, and when she was prepared to go out her father insisted that she should remain at home. She importuned him to allow her to go, but he was firm and the girl was obliged to remain at home. All night and far into the morning she was heard crying bitterly.

In the temporary absence of her parents this morning, she sent her little brother, Joseph, to a drug store for 10 cents worth of carbolic acid, which she said she wanted for disinfecting purposes. She attempted to drink the contents of the vial at one swallow, but was unable to do so, and fell to the floor unconscious. She was removed to the city hospital, where she died without having recovered consciousness. Her parents are prostrated and it is feared the shock may kill the girl's mother.

Lizzie Borden Heard From Again.

Fall River, Mass., June 4.—Lizzie A. Borden, whose father and mother were murdered in 1892, is the object of much comment to-day. By the death of her parents she became heir to the Andrew J. Borden building. One of the rooms in the building was occupied by the local branch of the Young Woman's Christian Temperance union, of which Miss Borden was, before the tragedy, an active member. While Miss Borden was in the Tarantum jail the society joined with the Woman's Christian Temperance union in passing resolutions of sympathy. Since then her case has been rigidly excluded from society debate, and several of the members have snubbed her. She felt that she should not put up with insults from her tenants, and accordingly the Young Woman's Christian Temperance Union has been compelled to seek quarters elsewhere. The affair has caused considerable indignation among the eighty members of the local branch.

Sweeter than Honey in the Honeycomb.

"What in life is half so sweet,
As the hour when lovers meet."

Nothing is sweeter to the youthful and robust in health, but, alas! too many "Court in poetry, and live in prose" after marriage. This is especially true of the wives whose changed relations bring on weakness and derangements peculiar to married women, so that their lives become "prosy." To all such, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a great boon. It cures weak backs, headaches, neuralgic and "bearing down" pains, displacements and irregularities of the female organs. It is like a restorative and invigorating tonic, strengthening the nerves, and imparting new life to the tired and debilitated, bringing back the "roses to the cheek," and the "rainbows to the eyes." Sold by all druggists, under guarantee from its makers of satisfaction in every case, or price (1.00) refunded.

Summer School.

For those wishing employment, the months of June and July are the most desirable of the whole year to enter Palm's Business College, 1708-10 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, as they will graduate in the Fall when business is at its best and situations the most plentiful. Palm's College gives a complete business education at the minimum of cost and time, and assists its graduates in securing situations. Handsome circulars can be had for the asking.

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

An Agreement to Dispose of the Sugar Schedule Before the Senate Adjourns To-Day.

Washington, June 4.—Upon the tariff bill being taken up in the Senate to-day, Mr. Vest, Democrat, of Missouri, recalled his controversy with Mr. Aldrich before adjournment on Saturday when Mr. Aldrich asserted "positively, if not aggressively," that there were no sugar stock certificates in the market in 1890. Mr. Vest fortified his own statement by reading from an almanac of 1891, showing that in the year 1890 8,526,000 shares of sugar stock certificates had been sold in New York. And it was while these large sales were being made, with fluctuations of 35 per cent., that the McKinley act was being manipulated in Congress.

Mr. Allison, Republican, of Iowa, argued against the repeal of the sugar bounty and against placing sugar on the dutiable list.

Mr. Jones, Democrat, of Arkansas, replied to Mr. Allison and defended the schedule as proposed by the Finance Committee. Mr. Teller, Republican, of Colorado, referring to a statement by Mr. Jones that under the existing law $28,000,000 went to the Sugar Trust, spoke of that trust being based on $25,000,000 of property, being capitalized at $75,000,000, and paying on that capital from 20 to 27 per cent. every year. Mr. Blanchard, Democrat, of Louisiana, defended the position held by himself and his colleagues, and argued in support of the sugar schedule.

Mr. Morgan, Democrat, of Alabama, gave notice of an amendment making it a criminal offense for persons to enter into any combination or conspiracy to increase the market price of any article in any part of the United States.

The question was stated to be the amendment changing the date of repeal of the sugar bounty from July 1, 1894, to January 1, 1895. After some colloquy it was agreed to that the vote on the pending amendment and on Mr. Manderson's proposed amendment to continue the sugar bounty to 1905, be taken by 1 o'clock to-morrow; that on any other amendments the debate shall be under the 10 minute rule, and that the sugar schedule shall be disposed before the adjournment to-morrow.

As good. This is the statement of Professor Smith, Analytical Chemist: I have analyzed all of the popular blood purifiers and medicines now sold. Many of them I found to be worthless, some dangerous to use. Sulphur Bitters contains nothing poisonous, and I think it is the best blood purifier made.

IT WOULD BE PRETTY TOUGH.

To Do Away with Kissing, but the Long Dresses Might Go.

Bellefonte Board of Health, stand up. We have a serious question for you to consider. It orignated elsewhere, but for all that is none the less important, and might be tried on in Bellefonte.

But to the question itself. The fair ones of the city of Orange, N. J., are being urged not to allow men to kiss them, and not kiss one another when they meet. It's awful, isn't it girls, in some cases, but wouldn't it be a blessing in others! To women who haven't any particular love for each other, for instance, but for fashion and politeness sake must kiss when they meet. Young men who would a-wooing go must not touch their lips to those of the objects of their affection down there, but that would hardly work in Bellefonte, even if in the interest of health? Women must no longer wear long dresses, either. The matter was brought up the other evening at a meeting of the Orange board of health. The sanitary committee of the board had the two questions under consideration for some time. At the meeting it recommended that a circular be issued to the people asking every one to desist as much as possible from kissing, as the touching of lips was likely to bring on diphtheria. The subject of dress was brought up by the same committee, the members of which thought no woman ought to wear a dress the bottom of which touched the ground. The dust of streets and roadways was likely to contain the germs of disease. Sensible committee. Action by the board was deferred till another meeting of the Orange board of health, but that has nothing to do with our own board. The danger is pointed out to them, and that should suffice.

—JENNIE CREEK, the little miss who flagged a train last summer which was approaching a burning bridge and there by saved a train load of World's Fair passengers, has been remembered pleasantly by the French passengers aboard the train, if her own countrymen failed to mark her heroism as it should have been. The French World's Fair commissioner laid the incident before President Carnot, who ascertained the truth of it and forwarded to the little girl a medal of the Legion of Honor—thus recognizing her act of heroism. It remains to be seen what effect this will have on the girl's future life, whether this one act will fill her with an inordinate pride of what she accomplished or whether it will induce her to futher unselfish sacrifice of her time for the benefit of others.

—The aim of every business man should be to use every opportunity of reaching every possible customer. Newspaper advertising is the instrument most likely to accomplish this end. Other means have been tried and have failed. For a time, circulars were considered to be as good a means of accomplishing success as could be devised; but those have been overdone and are not now read. Circulars almost invariably find their way, often with unbroken wrapper, into the wastebasket or the fire. The newspaper is by far the better means of reaching the bulk of the people. This result has been the outcome of many experiments in various kinds of advertising.—National Advertiser.

—A queer find was made by the people residing along the Susquehanna river in the vicinity of Slab Lock, York county, Wednesday. It consisted of a handsome coffin in which was a well-dressed child of apparently between eight and twelve months old. The coffin was found in the debris along the river and evidently came down with the flood. No one knows where it came from. An inquest was held over the body and it was then immediately interred. Information on the affair is exceedingly scarce, but it is clear that there was no knowledge as to how the coffin got into the water or how long it had been there.

O, this dull, depressing headache,
That wont wear off;
This hawking and this spitting,
And this hacking cough.
I've lost my sense of smelling,
And taste's going too.
I know catarrh's what ails me,
But—what shall I do?
My hacking and my hawking
Keeps up a steady din;
I'm haunted by the fear that
Consumption may set in.
I feel supremely wretched;
No wonder I'm blue,
I know my health's failing,
But—what can I do?

Do? I'll tell you what to do, my friend, if you'll lend me your ear a minute. Go down to the drug store and buy Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and take it according to directions given, and you'll soon find that this miserable headache is a thing of the past; the hacking and spitting, so disagreeable to others as well as yourself, will come to an end, and in a short time you will feel like a new man. A new man—think of—that—and all for fifty cents, which is the price of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, the unfailing cure for this terrible disease.

The Pennsylvania's Summer Traveling Guide.

The Summer Excursion Book of the Pennsylwania Railroad for 1894 is out, and presents an unusually meritorious appearance. Great care has been exercised in its compilation, the technical information being especially reliable.

The great variety of routes suggested, the exhaustive schedules of rates, the graphic descriptions of about four hundred places, the explanatory maps and the illustrations, make the volume exceedingly valuable and almost indispensible to those contemplating summer touring.

A nominal charge of ten cents is placed on each copy, which can be obtained on application to ticket agents or the general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania railroad company, Philadelphia. Ten cents extra will be charged for mailing.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

By local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation, can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular; free.

Half the Army in Jail.

Parkersburg W. Va., June 5.—Frye's industrial broke camp to-day. Col. Blondelle, with his officers and teams, started East over the pike. About 100 went toward Kanawha, on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, 10 miles out, and tried to stop a train. The balance of the army took possession of a freight train as it started East from town. The train was side tracked and the railroad authorities demanded assistance of the sheriff. Over 3,000 citizens ran to the yards.

Finding he could accomplish nothing, the sheriff issued a call on the military, officers of which wired the Governor for instructions. The sheriff got the entire police force and went with warrants for the arrest of the "hobos," all of whom surrendered. They were conducted through the city to Justice Jones's office, where they were given a preliminary trial. Judge Loomis and C. T. Caldwell volunteered to defend the prisoners. The justice sent all to jail, where they will be held until to-morrow.

The attorneys demanded separate trials by jury of their constitutional right, which if granted, will exhaust the county panel and cost thousands of dollars. Citizens are indignant over the useless expense, and abuse the official.

COME TO BELLEFONTE.

Many Reasons Why the Nittany Valley Trade Should Come Here.

The long talked about electric railroad from Mill Hall to Lock Haven is now in the hands of parties who will push it to immediate completion. We have it from good authority that it will be finished and ready for business on August 1st. Bellefonte business men should now watch out for the Nittany valley trade, making an effort to attract it this way. The Central Railroad of Pennsylvania will shortly put on three trains a day which will give our business men a good opportunity to offer inducements for the business of that valley to come to Bellefonte. There is no reason why the prescriptions given by the doctors should not come to our druggists; there is no reason why the small merchant of the valley should not buy their goods, many of them, in this town. The Eureka Grocery can sell to them in small lots as cheap as they can buy in the city, in this way they can keep a larger and fresher variety of goods in stock. Our hardware men can sell as cheap as anyone anywhere; our jewelers can sell as cheap, and do offer as large a variety as can be found in the large cities; our cigar manufacturers and dealers sell the finest line of goods to be found anywhere in the world; our dry goods merchants offer an immense stock to select from and at prices that defy competition; our furniture dealers have a large and well selected stock and there are many large stores in that line here; our doctors are of every known school and equal to any in the United States; our plumbers, gas and steam fitters are many, and excellent workmen, and can give the finest kind of a job. We have more printers than we have any use for and they will print you letter heads, envelopes, posters, or anything else, at a price that means bread and water to the proprietor, notwithstanding wheat is less than sixty cents a bushel. McCalmont & Co., will sell everything a farmer wants from a quart of Hungarian grass seed to a farm wagon or the most complicated harvester and reaper. Swartz & Dubbs will sell any kind of a farm implement on the easiest kind of terms. Our preachers will give you gospel straight and our cranks can give you any kind of a theory on temperance, politics or the science of government; they will tell you how to make a Heaven here below and live without enduring the curse of earning your bread by the sweat of your brow. In fact, we have everything in Bellefonte and the very best and we invite the people of the world to come and deal with us. We mean business.

Crossing the Atlantic

Usually involves sea sickness. When the waves play pitch and toss with you, strong indeed must be the stomach that can stand it without revolting. Tourists, commercial travelers, yauchtsmen, mariners, all testify that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the best remedy for the nausea experienced in rough weather on the water. Nervous and weakly travelers by land often suffer from something akin to this, and find in the Bitters its surest remedy. No disorder of the stomach, liver or bowels is so obstinate that it may not be overcome. Equally efficacious is it for chills and fever, kidney and rheumatic trouble and nervousness. Emigrants to the frontier should provide themselves with this fine medicinal safeguard against the effects of vicissitudes of climate, hardship, exposure and fatigue.

The State Bank Tax Repeal.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The end of the debate on the bill to repeal the law taxing the issues of state and other banks and associations, is not yet in sight in the house, although an effort will be made tomorrow to draw it to a close. It has been the desire of Speaker Crisp and other democratic leaders, especially those interested in the management of the appropriation bills, that Monday should see the close of the general debate on the bill, and there has been talk of bringing in an order from the committee on rules to that effect. But it has been opposed by the republicans who want the debate to exhaust itself, and by a number of democrats of whom Messrs. Rayner, of Maryland, and Harter, of Ohio, are types. The former opposes repeal and the latter favors it, but both agree that the discussion should proceed two weeks at least, as in their opinion that period of time could be profitably spent in consideration of the subject. That the time would be occupied is proved by the length of the list of those who have asked Chairman Richardson for times in which to speak. It is probable that the order referred to will be reported by the committee on rules tomorrow to test the question. It it shall be agreed to, it will mean that the repeal bill will pass; if it shall be defeated, the fate of the bill will be to be "talked to death." In that event the executioners may consent to reduce the limit within which to perform that duty and end the matter within a day or two.

When the state bank tax bill shall have been disposed of the Indian appropriation bill will be taken up. An unusual long discussion of its provisions is anticipated, because of the many radical changes Mr. Holman has introduced into the bill. Next in order of general legislation will be the general deficiency bill for the year ending the 30th inst., which will have been reported to the house in the meantime.

All in a Name.

Hamilton, O., June 5.—Very sensational measures are projected from the session of the American Protestant association grand lodge of Ohio which meets in this city tomorrow. This organization is separate from the American Protective association and claims no interest in politics. It is said that a crisis in the society's affairs is imminent.

Rev. C. A. Herman, pastor of the St. John's Evangelical church, the largest Protestant congregation here, is a prominent figure in the order and claims that the American Protective association, known otherwise as the A. P. A., had stolen their title from the American Protestant association. He said that the society, now in its thirteenth year of existence, is thoroughly organized in thirty states in the union. He with others of the association intend to bring the alleged theft of their title before the session with a view to launching the question into the courts.

—We are glad to hear that the Bellefonte Academy will realize the one hundred dollars aimed for on the recent operatic entertainments. The expenses were very heavy, being about $224, but after all these have been met, the College will be able to get $100. An authorized official statement will be published in a few days.

DECORATION DAY POEM—1894.

Arise the morning dawneth,—
The nations reveille
Calleth once more to action—
O'er all this land so free.
This Union—like one camping ground
With guns of peace doth now resound
Yet with a saddened tone—
Which brings to mind the graves we know,
Cover the soldiers lying low,
And also the unknown.

The grandest nation on the earth
Extends a grand salute,
To honor buried soldier boys
Which meets with no repute.
In squads and bands, and regiment,
And companies are people sent,
To graves of soldiers shown;
To spread some flowers in honor there,
And make a mound most wond'rous fair,
To honor the unknown.

Each soldier's cemetery has,
Like to a camping ground,
Where every tent is marble white
Above each well-raised mound.
But there were men whose bivouac
Of dying sleep had all the lack,
Of e'en a marking stone—
And so we raise this floral mound,
And give the drum a muffled sound,
Because of the unknown.

We gather up wind-riddled flags
Which all the last past year,
Have marked the silent resting place
Of men to Union dear.
And now with fresh red, white and blue,
Entwined with flowers again we strew,
Each grave we find alone—
And 'neath Old Glory's fluttering fold,
We honor numbers all untold,
Of graves which are unknown.

Those stars of white arranged in blue,
Remind us all to-day,
Of every pure soldier's heart,
Which now has passed away.
Methinks beyond the eternal blue
They rest to-day, where life is new—
Beyond the sigh and moan—
Which blood-red stripes remind us now.
Hurried each lip, and face and brow,
Into the great unknown.

The sun which shown on battle-fields,
Shines now upon each grave;
And time beholds them now increase,
With numbers of the brave.
O, stay! O, Time! upon thy winged way,
We grieve so many noble ones to lay,
Where blossoms now are strown.
These men have been the Nation's germ,
May they see many a favored turn,
And not be the unknown.

May all our literature to-day
Take on a nobler style;
Because more honor to the brave,
We gave a little while.
O, authors! marching double-quick,
For patriotic subjects pick,
Compose that men may all discern,
Respect for this great day may learn,
And live for the unknown.

O, blossoms! they are frailest things,
And wither e'er 'tis night,
But they are fittest emblems now,
To make each grave look bright.
Each tiny bud reminds us all,
Of boys who have been known to fall,
In years which now are flown.
Boys, who were not developed men,
But joined the army and soon then
Were in the great unknown.

And blossoms bring into our minds
Remembrances of those
Who died in honor on the field.
When smoke of battle rose.
And withered flowers remind us all,
Of aged ones who at the call,
Marched forward all alone.
Where all are buried none can tell,
But we will strive to honor well,
E'en those who are unknown.

A little handful now remains,
Like one lone sheaf of wheat;
Of those who unmindfully gained,
And year by year they meet.
And as their numbers one by one
Disburse, when this short life is done,
Like withered blossoms blown;
May patriotic minds expand,
To honor still throughout the land,
The graves of the unknown.

O, may the tactics of our lives,
Be as superior
As those who fought to win the prize,
With naught inferior.
May no manouver here we make,
Be found to be a great mistake,
When this short life is flown.
When we shall reach that camping ground,
Where never furlough may be found,
Beyond the Great Unknown.

May education's truest work
Prevent another war;
For peace and unity so grand
Is what it all is for.
O! let Old Glory's brightening folds,
Spread out where lessons minds do mould,
In children not yet grown!
Let not the duties we should do—
We few Americans so true—
By any be unknown.

The more we study on this line,
The more we all believe—
If we neglect these mental helps,
We'll meet with no reprieve.
But worst of all disunions there
Will find uneducated men,
In awful chaos thrown;
Then let us hold the sacred trust,
Left us by those beneath the dust—
The known, and the unknown.

But, O! the day advances,
The shadows longer grow,
Our work must be completed
For those now lying low
When taps shall sound for rest to-night,
As in the days of war and fight,
May duty done be shown.
May bloom and patriotic song,
Help freedom's sons to be more strong,
To all good deeds be known.

And when life's tents are folded,
And campfires fade away;
The last bright floral offering
For Decoration Day
Is laid upon a soldier's mound,
May our life's record then be found,
With good deeds to have shown.
With conquering armies of the sky,
May be forevermore on high.
Be numbered with the known.

Sleep on, O! men of battle,
Comrades forever dear;
The full reward of conquest
Draws ever, ever near.
The time is fully now elapsed,
We think we hear the evening taps,
With gentle restful tone,
And Decoration Day is o'er—
With all its treasured floral store—
For unknown and the known.

Walker Township Wedding.

An interesting hymenial affair took place in Walker township Tuesday of this week. It was the marriage of Mr. T. B. Rupert and Mrs. Elizabeth Zimmerman, both of near Zion. Rev. J. J. Lohr, the Evangelical minister of Clintondale, was the officiating minister and tied the nuptial knot in his usual happy style. Mr. and Mrs. Rupert have the best possible wishes of their numerous friends.

—Among the successful and energetic business men in Bellefonte none are more enterprising or deserve more credit than just our young friend Edward K. Rhoads, the coal dealer and grain and hay merchant. Pushing, but careful, he has built up for himself a business second to none in the town.

At Cripple Creek.

Miners Strengthening Their Fortifications Every Day.

Cripple Creek, Col., May 31.—All is quiet on the hill, the governor being detained by washouts which necessitated a postponement of the proposed meeting to effect a compromise. The miners may eventually be driven from their position, but any attempt to remove them by force will result in loss of life. The picket lines are so strong now that no one can enter the camp or leave it without an order from the commander. A regular courtmartial has been established and a session is held nightly. The strickest military duty is now enforced and pickets change on the hour as regularly as soldiers in the regular army when on duty. The miners on Bull Hill received a large quantity of provisions and ammunition at their headquarters last night and are reinforcing their positions at every point. They have received a number of shells for their twenty-five pound field piece, which is so located that they are better prepared to shell the enemy than the deputies are to storm the fort on Bull Hill. They now have nearly one hundred head of horses and their scouts are scouring the country in all directions, getting information of the actions of the deputies and arranging for supplies. They have a secret system of securing information and they know of everything that goes on in the heart of the deputies camp. Three of the stage on the Cripple Creek and Canon City mail line to Lawrence have been stopped by armed men. The drivers were compelled to stop until all the passengers had been searched and relieved of all fire arms. Two six horse stages arrived from Midland this afternoon both laden with grain. Not a passenger has come on the stage for two days, but the outgoing conveyances are loaded with frightened people who are fleeing from the threatened danger. Two stages were out over the Canon City road, as they feared to go out via the Midland road. The strikers are now making prisoners of men whom they consider dangerous to their safety and some people are extravagant enough to say that fifty persons are thus held in custody. The latest capture is that of Jake Greenwall, of Requa Gulch. Last night Riley Sheldy was taken from the Placer mines but was released later. They also took three non-union men from the Summit mine and riddled the telephone in the office with bullets. Three men were taken in at 3 o'clock this morning as miners' scouts.

The Operator's Committee

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 31.—Chairman E. J. Berwind, of the soft coal operator's organization today announced the committee of three authorized at last Monday's conference to take charge of the details in their effort to resume work at the mines. The committeemen are said to be three of the leading operators in the state, but their names were not made public, as such a course, it is claimed would merely single them out as the special targets for the opposition of the strikers. A short conference of the committee was held late in the afternoon, but no definite action was taken. The details of the plan for starting up will, however, be perfected before Monday, when it is expected that the first effort will be made to start up certain mines with new men. Just which mines will be selected is one of the points for the committee to determine. The main feature of the plan, as originally outlined, will be adhered to, and those mines best adapted for defense, will be selected as the levers with which to break the strike. The general situation from the operators' standpoint, remained unchanged today, and there is not the slightest indication of any tendency to give in to the demands of the men. The general feeling among coal men was that the early part of next week would bring the crisis of the strike.

Sending Coal West.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., May 31.—The Philadelphia and Reading and Lehigh Valley coal companies are quietly but largely taking advantage of the bituminous coal strike by shipping anthracite coal east and west to persons heretofore using bituminous coal. These shipments af anthracite from the Schuylkill region, it is expected, will reach very large proportions in the near future if the bituminous strike continues. The sizes now being shipped are lump, pea and buckwheat. The Lehigh is rushing some of its collieries day and night and is forwarding a large quantity of its anthracite to supplant bituminous to Cleveland, Chicago and other lake points. This coal goes by way of Buffalo and the Lehigh's own boat lines. The Reading is forwarding anthracite in sealed box cars to the far west via Harrisburg and Gettysburg and Baltimore and Ohio lines. The destination points are principally in St. Louis territory. Anthracite coal in St. Louis is selling at $8.50 and $9 a ton. The Reading is also forwarding considerable coal to New England points just now to factories that have hitherto used bituminous. The Philadelphia and Reading collieries are at present running out about 60 per cent. of full production. The supply at the different storage points is being rapidly lessened. Coal for local consumption here at the mines is to be raised from $3.60 to $4 a ton in view of extra demand for the new territory.

May Settle the Trouble.

HARRISBURG, May 31.—Governor Pattison has received this dispatch from P. M. McBryde, secretary of the Mine Workers' union: "Can you arrange a meeting between the executive board of miners and operators, and if so when?" This is taken as an answer to the governor's message to the Houtzdale miners submitting the proposition of the operators and he at once transmitted it to the operators who were in conference with him Monday night, asking that they appoint a meeting. He telegraphed McBryde of his action. This afternoon Governor Pattison received a message that the president of the Berwind-white coal mining company was not at home and an answer would be sent tomorrow.

The New Rebellion.

One day's report in the morning papers shows that a state of civil war actually exists in many parts of the country, caused by the rebellion of wage earners against attempts to reduce their earnings.

In Colorado eleven men or more are caught in a mine and blown to death with gunpowder by the strikers, and officers there are awaiting reinforcements to attack them, when a bloody struggle is expected.

In Pennsylvania five strikers are shot down and killed on the public highway by officers, and their fellow workmen are ready for any desperate enterprise to avenge their slaughter.

In Illinois the troops have been called out. At one point property has been destroyed and the offices of mine owners fired upon by the mob.

In Indiana a thousand men have seized a railway train in an attempt to go to the relief of their comrades in Illinois and make the strike there a success. In other parts of Indiana mines have been closed, or are under the guard of officers. The Governor has been asked to call out the troops.

In West Virginia the troops are held ready for marching orders against the rioters there.

In Kentucky strikers are using revolvers to intimidate those who would take their places in the mines.

Kansas is again invaded by Missourians, who go to reinforce the strikers in that State.

Such is one day's report.

Want to Practice Law.

Chicago, May 31.—The unusual spectacle of an ex-president of the United States and an ex-attorney general presenting themselves as applicants for admission to practice was witnessed this morning when the United States court for the seventh circuit convened in its new quarters in the Monadnock building. Just after the court was formally opened ex-President Harrison and ex-Attorney General Miller, together with half a dozen other gentlemen, rose to their feet and were admitted to practice. Mr. Harrison and Mr. Miller appear in the case of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad company, plaintiff in error, vs. W. R. McKeen, an appeal from the circuit court of the district of Indiana, a suit growing out of the operations of "Napoleon" Ives. They are counsel for the appellee.

Has Coxey's Bill in Charge.

Washington, May 31.—Representative Hudson, populist, of Kansas, who has Coxey's petition for a habeas corpus in charge, sent it to the jail this afternoon for signature. He says he wishes to present it to one of the justices of the supreme court of the United States for approval. This court has taken its summer recess, and in case he cannot find one of the justices he will present the matter to the supreme court of the District of Columbia. Carl Browne has prepared a petition in his own behalf to the supreme court of the United States for the issue of a rule directed against himself that he appear before that court and show cause why he should be released from jail.

Make a Murderous Assault.

Hazelton, Pa., May 31.—James McNelis, a resident of Pleasant Hill, a village near here, was the victim of a murderous assault last evening at the hands of an Italian desperado. McNellis was standing in the doorway of his house talking to a neighbor when two Italians rushed upon them and one, a notorious character about here known as "Curly," fired several shots from a revolver at them and then cut McNelis's throat from ear to ear with a razor. The shots and the outcries brought assistance and the two scoundels fled and made their escape. The object of the attack is supposed to have been robbery. It took twenty five stitches to sew up the wound in McNellis's throat and his condition is serious.

A Good Citizen.

An exchange in speaking of what it takes to constitute good citizenship says: "The best citizen is not necessarily the man with the largest bank account or rent roll; with the handsomest home or the most eloquent voice or loudest protestation. The man, be he rich or poor, high or low, who meets the daily duties of life with steadfast courage and performs them with honest exactness; whose hand grasps in cheery friendliness, that of his neighbor, and whose acts point not only to personal advancement but public welfare; who spends some measure of his time to the service of the place of his residence and stands ready to respect public obligations not less than private, may justly claim rank in the highest type of citizenship. Public spirit is the only lever for public progress which vicissitude cannot break or impair."

IN THE SENATE.

The Policy of the United States Toward Hawaii Discussed.

Washington, May 31.—The question of the policy of the United States towards the Hawaiian islands was definitely and clearly announced by the unanimous vote of the senate to-day in the adoption of a resolution reported from the committee on foreign relations declaring that it belongs wholly to the people of those islands to establish and maintain their own form of government and domestic policy; that the United States ought not in any way interfere therewith, and that any intervention in the political affairs of those islands by any other government would be regarded as an unfriendly act to the United States.

The tariff bill was taken up at 10.30 and within the next hour the four paragraphs in the lumber schedule were disposed of. The first of the four, fixing duties on lumber, planed or finished, was, by a vote of 35 to 24, struuk out of the bill, so that such lumber may be put upon the free list when that stage of the bill is reached. The duty on chair cane, or reeds, was increased from 7 per cent. (as in the house bill) to 10 per cent. and the other duties in the schedule were left as in the house bill.

The sugar schedule (E) having been reached, a three hour speech on the whole question of the tariff was made by Mr. Sherman, of Ohio, and Mr. Dolph, of Oregon, addressed the senate at great length on the subject of punishment for contempt of the senate. The newspaper correspondents who had refused to answer certain questions of the committee investigating the connection of the sugar trust and the sugar schedule, no conclusion was reached, when at 6.05, the senate adjourned.

IN THE HOUSE.

There were three more speeches upon the bill, for the repeal of the state bank law, delivered in the house today, after Mr. Black, democrat, of Georgia, had concluded his argument in favor of the repeal of the law, which he began on Tuesday. The speakers were Messrs. Walker, republican, of Massachusetts; McLarin, democrat, of South Carolina, and Wheeler, democrat, of Alabama. At the present rate of progress, judging from the length of the list of speakers who have already asked to be heard, the debate upon this measure is likely to last for a week or ten days yet. Messrs. Brosius, republican, of Pennsylvania, and DeWitt Warner, democrat, of New York, members of the committee on banking and currency, are expected to speak to-morrow. Bills were passed before the discussion was entered upon today, authorizing the secretary of war to acquire by condemnation or other proceedings the ground necessary to complete the Gettysburg battlefield reservation, in accordance with the terms of the act of March 3, 1893, and to provide for the appointment of an additional judge of thh United States court for the northern district of Illinois.

Prohibitionists to Meet.

The Prohibition State Convention convenes at Williamsport next Wednesday. Tuesday evening there will be a street parade, and cannon will be fired every six minutes. Sky rockets and red fire will be burned from the six highest buildings in the city. Six mounted policemen will lead the parade followed by the Chief Marshall and the preachers brigade, delegations, flags, transparencies, &c.

After the parade an interesting feature will be a college oratorical contest, and prizes awarded to the successful orators. The convention will be in session all day Wednesday.

A saloon is the foundation of sin, the school of the devil; it works wonders fitting the place. The lectures that are read in this school of the devil are oaths, perjuries, lying, blasphemies, fighting and murder.

In Pennsylvania women are eligible to positions on school boards, but are not considered capable of voting for school directors.

"I believe the great vices in our large cities will never be conquered until the ballot is put into the hands of women."—Bishop Simpson.

There are in this country 2,509 women practicing medicine, 275 preaching the gospel, more than 6,000 managing post offices, and only 3,000,000 earning independent incomes. Since 1889 the patent office has granted over 2,500 patents to women, and in New York city 27,000 women support their husbands.

Wine is a mocker; strong drink is raging, and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise. At the last it biteth like a serpant and stingeth like an adder.—Scripture.

High license believes in putting whisky into a boy through a $1,000 funnel and then putting the boy into the gutter; we believe the better way would be to put the whisky into the gutter and save the boy.

It has been thought that some philanthropist might establish a gold cure home for inebrates in Blair county. We suggest that he locate in Bellwood, as Hollidaysburg has the almshouse and jail, and the proceeds of the liquor traffic should be divided up a little. MRS. L. H. ROOT.

THERE is but one way in the world to be sure of having the best paint, and that is to use only a well-established brand of strictly pure white lead, pure linseed oil, and pure colors.*

The following brands are standard, "Old Dutch" process, and are always absolutely

Strictly Pure White Lead

"Armstrong & McKelvy,"
"Beymer-Bauman,"
"Davis-Chambers,"
"Fahnestock."

* If you want colored paint, tint any of the above strictly pure leads with National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors.

These colors are sold in one-pound cans, each can being sufficient to tint 25 pounds of Strictly Pure White Lead the desired shade; they are in no sense ready-mixed paints, but a combination of perfectly pure colors in the handiest form to tint Strictly Pure White Lead.

VIGOROUS HEALTH FOR MEN

THE PASTILLE CURE FOR NERVOUS DEBILITY — TRADE MARK

Prof. HARRIS' SOLUBLE MEDICATED Pastille

Has been put up in a proprietary form since 1873, and has been used for years prior to that time in private practice. It is no untried nostrum, of doubtful reputation, but a genuine specific for a very prevalent disease. Thousands of men, of all ages, have at some time in life brought on nervous debility and exhaustion, with organic weakness, by over brain work, excesses, too frequent indulgence or indiscretion and vicious habits, and it is to these that we offer a remedy that will, by its direct action upon the seat of the disease, stop the drain and restore the patient to vigorous health and strength.

Our method of introducing Prof. Harris' Pastille treatment is one which commends itself to all sensible persons—for the reason that we supply it upon their judgment of its value. We ask of our patrons nothing in the way of expense beyond a postal card and a two cent postage stamp. The postal card to be used in sending us their full address and the postage stamp for the letter returning the statement of their case for which we supply them with a question blank, to be filled out, and an envelope addressed to ourselves for use in returning it when filled.

FREE TRIAL PACKAGE. When we receive the statement on blank we prepare eight days' treatment and forward it by mail and prepay postage thereon—and along with the eight days' treatment we send full directions for using. The treatment in no way interferes with a person's attention to business, and causes no pain or inconvenience in any way.

We are so positive that it will give perfect satisfaction that we leave the matter of sending orders entirely with those using the free trial treatment. Having satisfied those sending for trial packages of our ability to benefit their sexual condition we feel that they are more largely interested than ourselves in continuing the use of the Pastilles. Even then we do not attempt to rob them by demanding high prices. On the contrary, we make the prices as low as possible, and the same to all. They are as follows: $3 for one month; $5 for two months; $7 for three months.

These prices secure the delivery of the Pastilles by mail. If desired by express we leave the patient to pay the charges. For over ten years we have operated our business upon this plan with satisfactory results.

We ask all persons needing treatment for any of the secret ills which come to mankind through a violation of nature's laws to send us their address on postal card or by letter and allow us to convince them that PROF. HARRIS' SOLUBLE MEDICATED PASTILLES have merit and are what they need.

All communications confidential and should be addressed to Expiring Coxeyism.

The Coxey Commonweal nuisance, which was abated by the Washington Board of Health by being moved outside the limits of the District of Columbia, is an annoyance and a disturber of the peace to the country people outside the border. There is lack of food and more or less destruction and disorder in the Coxey camp in consequence. When the food supply ceases entirely the Commonwealers will depeart for fresher fields and greener people. Galvin, who with a band of 125 or so was storm-stayed last week on the Susquehanna, must be pretty close to Washington by this time. General Frye's army, which has come all the way from California and was approaching Pittsburg at last accounts, may reach Washington finally, but the six or eight other armies on the road give indication that their pilgrimages are nearly over.

The Wisconsin army, under General Wilson, has formally disbanded. Kelley whose ambition it is to address the people of Washington from a balloon, has for some astute reason headed his army down the Mississippi. He expects to have a great time in St. Louis. The various trans-Mississippi armies are more or less in jail and those that have avoided train stealing and arrest have suffered great hardship. Nothing short of superior force or threatened starvation can stay these men permanently, since the majority of them probably have left nothing behind that they regret and might as well be moving on toward Washington as any place else. So long as there is any commissary they will stay with the army. When that is exhausted with no prospect of being renewed the army will disband and each Commonwealer will pursue his vagrant fancy as before, singly or in groups or two or three.

Labor organizations make the mistake of treating these marching vagrants as veritable laborers on a serious mission. Faye's army was made most of in Cincinnati and Kelley's army is to be met and given a demonstration in St. Louis. Though honest labor may be beguiled in to taking parts in these exhibitions to some extent it is the professional Anarchists and agitators who are disposed to make the most of the coming and going of these marching armies. Coxeyism is the nearest approach to anarcy they have seen in this country. It is their opportunity and they make the most of it, but that most is not alarming since there can by no possibilty be any serious danger from the marching free lunchers of the Coxey armies. As soon as the free lunches are permanently withdrawn the tie that holds these bands together will be severed. They may take to stealing, but for such the law makes provision. It has already got three armies locked up out West for train stealing and there is room for the rest of the Commonwealers if they presume to violate the law of the land after exhausting its charity and good-natured indulgence.

Judge Dallas refuses to issue an injunction against the Gettysburg trolley road, whose line occupies the land which the National Commission desires to take possession of, on the ground that the law gives the Commission no authority to acquire real estate. This is a most surprising conclusion. The law makes an appropriation to the Commission for the express purpose of marking positions, opening avenues and fencing the same and placing tablets on the tactical positions of each command. In other words, the Commission is ordered to exercise rights of ownership on certain land, but Judge Dallas thinks that does not carry with it the right to purchase such land. Such a decision makes the act nugatory, for if the Commission cannot acquire land it can not carry out the instructions of Congress. How can it mark and fence avenues on the battlefield without first possessing the land? The appropriations for Chickamauga, Chattanooga and Antietam are almost in the same language. They direct that representatives of the United States Government shall exercise rights of ownership in real estate and grant money sufficient to acquire that real estate. If that does not by clear implication direct the representatives of the Government to acquire title to the necessary real estate in the usual way that whole line of legislation fails, for the land must be acquired before anything can be done.

Talking 1,500 Miles.

Some fine engineering was done in the matter of telephoning on Sunday night, May 20th, the night of the big flood when our lumbermen were in terror over the result of the rise. Charley Noll was at the 'phone, and as early as 9.30 the regular line was cut off and all communication direct from Williamsport ceased. Charley then called Bellefonte and got a connection with Altoona, and Altoona connected with Pittsburg, Pittsburg with Erie, Erie with Syracuse, N. Y., thence by two other intermediate stations to New York city, and from New York city to Reading, and then from Reading to Williamsport, and thus secured the news of the disaster and gave it out every hour. This was a marvelous achievement and it it is said the distance covered in receiving the messages was fifteen hundred miles.—Clearfield Raftsman's Journal.

Discovery of Penns Valley.

Capt. James Potter, in the summer of 1764, was the first white man to enter Penns Valley, as per Linn's notes. He was then an officer in the British Provincial army. Having obtained a leave of absence, he set off with one attendant in the summer of 1764. Passing up the West Branch, he reached the mouth of Spring Creek, then took to the mountains, and having reached the top of Nittany mountain, Capt. Potter seeing the prairies and noble forest beneath him, cried to the attendant,

"By heavens, Thompson, I have discovered an empire!"

Immediately descending into the plain they came to a spring, at what is now the Old Fort, one mile from Centre Hall.

Here, the notes say, the adventurers found themselves out of provisions, and for two days and as many nights, the flesh scraped from dried beaver skins was their only subsistence. He took his departure from here for Augusta, near Sunbury, and happened on a creek, which was named "John Penn's Creek."

Don't Forget the Heroines.

While we eulogize the men who fearlessly stood between the union and treason let us not forget the heroines of those dark days. If the soldiers were brave so were the mothers and wives. And the latter had to suffer alone. They did not have the inspiration that comes of numbers, nor as they performed their daily tasks at their homes, was there any hope of high renown to come. However much their heroic devotion they were sure the historic page would refer to it only in general terms, and that few names would be picked out for personal mention. Yet these women faltered not. They gave their husbands and their sons; all of their life plans and prospects were changed; in addition to the pang of bereavement there came in many cases, long years of poverty. But they submitted, often with a patience most marvelous. Some have gone to rejoin their loved patriots; others remain with us. Let neither the dead nor the living be forgotten at any time.

Deaths in Penns Valley.

Among the residents across the mountain who have passed to their eternal home during the past week are the following:

Mr. Henry Strohecker, aged 80 years, of Rebersburg, who died on Tuesday. The funeral was held Thursday morning.

Mr. Jacob Hazel, aged 82 years, 1 month and 9 days, died at his home in Madisonburg on Saturday and was buried on Tuesday.

Mrs. Bitner, wife of John Bitner, Sr., of near Centre Hall, aged 74 years, died on Monday and the funeral took place this orenoon.

John Fye, living about three miles from Potters Mills, died on Saturday last, of paralysis, aged about 55 years. He leaves a wife and four or five children to mourn their loss.

—The storm refuses to abate and is becoming universal. Heavy rains and washouts are reported from the Pacific Ocean to the Atlantic. In this part of the country we have had much more than our share of rain in the past two weeks, but the destructive storms that are still in progress in British Columbia, Washington, Montana, Colorado and Kansas forbid the hope that a dry season is at hand for Pennsylvania. A peculiarity of these storms is their destructive character following what are called cloudbursts. Pueblo, the leading city of Southern Colorado, is a victim of one of the worst phases of the storm, resulting in loss of life and great destruction of property. Is this Rocky Mountain storm on its way to join forces with our disturbed and saturated atmosphere?

The Gettysburg Decision.

The felicitations offered the Gettysburg Trolley Company because of its success before Judge Dallas are premature so far as they rest on the assumption that the route through the battlefield pre-empted by the trolley company will not be disturbed. That line bestrides the tactical positions of four Federal and thirtyfour Confederate commands. When the Battlefield Commission undertook to carry out the act of Congress and properly mark with tablets the position occupied by the various commands of the Army of the Potomac and of Northern Virginia on the Gettysburg battlefield it found that the position of a considerable number of these commands was already occupied by the rails and equipment of this trolley railroad, which had plowed its way through the heart of the battlefield. If the commission is to perform its duty properly this inharmonious occupant of the field has to be removed to a less conspicuous and instrusive position.

Judge Dallas says the act of Congress gives the commission no authority to acquire land. If so it has no authority at all any more than three private citizens would have. It might as well return its $25,000, as there is no way of spending lawfully any such sum of money. It has bought a good deal of ground already, but such purchases are invalidated by this decision. Congress instructed the Secretary of War, for whom the commission is acting, "to determine and mark with tablets the tactical positions of the various commands of the two great armies which contended on this battlefield and to open, improve and fence avenues along the positions occupied by the troops upon those lines." How can the commission enter upon private property to fence, improve, mark with tablets and lay out streets? These are acts of ownership and the law commanding them by necessary implication directs the commission first to procure the ground, since in no other way can the law be carried out. The decision appears to us exceedingly strained and narrow. Fortunately, though it delays the commission, it need only delay and not defeat the good work which the commission has in view.

The law which Judge Dallas thus robs of all vitality and value constitutes but a single item in the sundry civil appropriation bill of 1893. A similar item in the sundry civil appropriation bill of 1894, which passed the House last March and only waits the disposition of the tariff bill to be taken up in the Senate, appropriates $50,000 for continuing the work authorized the preceeding year "of surveying, locating and preserving the lines of battle at Gettysburg, Pa., and for purchasing, opening, constructing and improving avenues along the portion occupied by the various commands, etc" When this is passed the Gettysburg Commission can take up the work where Judge Dallas compels it now to suspend. In his opinion he says: "The authority to condemn land by an officer of the Government depends on the existence of the authority to procure." The pending legislation contains the word purchase, which was not expressed though clearly implied in the act of last year. With this enacted into law the Court cannot refuse to appoint a jury of viewers to appraise the land desired by the commission preliminary to its being condemned for the use of the Government that it may be suitably marked and preserved from change and spoilation for all time.—Press.

—There are two weddings in high life booked for the near future, and we overheard a young man remark this morning that to make it an odd number he would just go and get married himself. And from the present outlook we conclude that he will have to marry himself, unless he soon hunts up the young lady.

—The Bellefonte opera company last night produced that pleasing opera "Paul Jones," to a crouded house and scored a tremendous success. It is safe to say that it was decidedly the finest amateur production ever given in this section. Every one of the forty-two members of the company played his part to perfection.—Tyrone Herald.

—A few days ago a woman representing herself as Mrs. Bottorf, of Benore, was in Bellefonte soliciting money to help erect a house alleged to have been burned down a few weeks ago. An investigation revealed the fact that no house had been burned down and that this same woman has worked Bellefonte on this same racket. She seems to be an adept at the begging business.

—Word has just been received in Bellefonte that Morris Brown, of Logansport, Ind., who was here this winter as a student in the Bellefonte Academy, going from here to the Naval Academy at Baltimore, has passed a very creditable examination and is now a full-fledged cadet. Mr. Brown had been to the naval school before coming here but could not pass the examination and his success now speaks volumes for the educational work of the Academy on the hill.

A REMARKABLE RENDITION

Of "Paul Jones," by the Bellefonte Opera Company Friday Night.

When about a month ago it was announced that the Bellefonte opera company would give a performance of the brilliant opera "Paul Jones" in the near future, it was thought by some that the undertaking might prove a little too difficult for all home talent: but if those same parties were present in the opera house Friday night, and we presume they were, they could then see how vastly they underestimated the ability of Bellefonte ladies and gentlemen as actors.

The opera house never contained such a large and select audience as it did on this occasion. Every seat was occupied and many were compelled to stand. The curtain went up promptly at 8.15 o'clock for the first act. In order that our readers may know who participated we will give the full cast, chorus and assistants, which was as follows:

Paul Jones	Lee B. Woodcock.
Rufino de Martinez	J. E. Quigley
Bicognet	Hard P. Harris.
Don Trocadero	John Blanchard
Kestrell	James R. Hughes
Bouillabaisse	James Harris
Petit pierre	Geo R Meek
Yvonne	Miss Marie Meek
Chopinette	Miss Kate Lundy
Malaguena	Miss Berenice Moore.

The ladies who sang in the chorus and the gentlemen who assisted in the various capacities were as follows:

Misses Katharine Harris, Emma Montgomery, Eloise Meek, Myra Holliday, Lulu Hoy, Blanche Hayes, Aurora Moore, Ella Twitmire, Tessie Peters, Laura Rumberger, Mabel Cowdrick, Sara Malin, Tessie Lyon, May Taylor, Maud Campbell, Nellie Valentine, Helen Hastings, Helen Malin, Patty Lane.

Messrs. John Bullock, Henry Quigley, Charles Richards, Philip Waddle, Roy McCalmont, Henry Lyon, Charles Hughes Malcolm Laurie, Bert Bayard, George Bush, John Noll, George Bayard, Jerome Harper.

"Paul Jones" is Planquette's masterpiece—one of the best operas ever written. Its every act, situation and climax is full of interest, thrilling with excitement, and captivating beyond expression, and one which, to render satisfactorily requires considerable histrionic ability; but when well given—as it was on Friday evening—there is no opera or play which can and will more please and delight an audience. The story is a perfect illustration of the early life of that famous sea captain as given in Planquette's story, and it pleases as well as interests.

Were we to undertake to write a fair report of the rendition Friday evening from beginning to end it would fill several columns of this paper; and were we to attempt to write a just criticism of the various parts and actors our entire article would teem with words of praise. Every person in the cast, without exception, performed his and her part far better than many professionals, and in such a manner as to be entirely above one word of adverse criticism. As the leading characters Mr. Lee B. Woodcock and Miss Marie Meek were perfect and the numerous bouquets and floral emblems they received fully attested the fact of how highly their admirers estimated their acting. J. E. Quigley made a model Spanish officer while John Blanchard, Esq., as a Spanish governor, was simply "out of sight," if we may be allowed to use that expression. His part was probably the most difficult of all, but he acted it with the ease, grace and perfection of a professional. As the skipper of a yankee privateer James R. Hughes also comes in for his share of the glory, while Hard P. Harris not only looked well but admirably filled the part of a St. Malo ship chandler. Indeed, we had no idea Hard would make such a handsome looking "old man" and it was no wonder that he succeeded in winning the heart of Don Trocadero's niece, Miss Berenice Moore, whose part of sunshine and storm was so well taken. But the funny boys in the play were James Harris an old smuggler, and George Meek, the fisher lad. Their appearance at all times pleased not only the gallery gods, but the entire audience. As comedians they were both a great success, while their acting had no superiors. And last, but by no means the least was the part of Miss Lundy, as the wife of Bouillabaisse. This was probably the most difficult part enacted by the ladies, but its rendition was extraordinarily good. The singing done by all of the leading parts was most natural and perfect.

We would not be doing justice to all if we didn't make special mention of the very excellent manner in which the young ladies in the chorus and the gentlemen in the minor rolls performed their parts, which was equally as good as the leading roles. On the whole it was one of the most delightful entertainments ever given in Bellefonte and the acting in the entire production rivaled that of many professional companies.

Second Night of "Paul Jones."

A very fair audience was in the opera house Monday evening to witness the second performance of "Paul Jones" by the Bellefonte opera company and it is needless to say the entire audience, without exception, was very much pleased. Every member in the company seemed to play his or her part with more ease and naturalness than characterized their acting of Friday night. There was a change in the cast owing to the inability of Miss Kate Lundy to appear. Her place, the part of "Chopinette," was enacted by Miss Kate Harris, in the dialogue parts, while Miss Ella Twitmire sang in the musical role. Great credit is due Miss Harris for the admirable manner in which she played her difficult role, as she had really only one day in which to rehearse her part and her acting was above criticism. The same can be said of Miss Twitmire. A few new features were introduced during the performance which made it as a whole even more interesting and entertaining than it was on Friday night, if such a thing were possible.

Too much credit cannot be given Mr. George N. Brandon, musical director, and Mr. Wilbur F. Harris, stage manager, for the very successful way in which the opera was presented on both occasions. Both young men were indefatigable in their labor to secure as near perfect results as possible and the public in general knows how well they succeeded.

Death of Mrs. Robert Ray.

Death comes to one and all alike and the visit of this destroying angel to Bellefonte yesterday was marked with the taking away of one of the well known lady residents of Bellefonte in the person of Mrs. Robert Ray, mother of S. D. Ray, Esq., who died at her home on Spring street Wednesday. Mrs. Ray was quite well up in years, and has been ill for many months.

There is left to mourn the loss of a loving companion and mother, a husband and seven children, as follows: Mrs. C. T. Cheeseman, of Snow Shoe; S. D. Ray, Esq., of Bellefonte; John C. Ray, of Milton; R. W. Ray, of Avoca, Io., George T. Ray, of Snow Shoe, and Ambrose and Calvin Ray, of Bellefonte. Five children preceded their mother to that land of rest.

The funeral will take place from her late residence at half-past ten o'clock on Friday morning. Interment in the Union cemetery.

A. A. Dale for the Legislature.

A communication received from Boggs township is as follows:

The time is now here when we should look around for a suitable person for one of the most important offices that is in the hands of the people to give, namely, Legislature. Who shall that man be? Let the Republicans of the county stop and think. We need a man that is intelligent and one who has a knowledge of the laws and is able to defend the rights of the poor as well as the rich. A man that is sober and industrious, and one that can be elected. That man is A. A. Dale, Esq., of Bellefonte, Pa. Let us make no mistake, but nominate him, and his election is certain.

MANY CITIZENS.

—"Laugh, and, the world laughs with you but weep and you weep alone." So sings the poet, but is it true? Only comparatively. There is a great deal of genuine sympathy in the world, and those who really deserve sympathy generally get it. It is natural, however, to look on the bright side of life and it is wisdom to cultivate and enjoy laughter. It is a good thing to sympathize with a friend in trouble, but it is much better if you can help him to forget his sorrow and join you in laughter. "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine, but a broken spirit drieth the bones.

Reunion.

The fourth annual reunion of the Association of Honorably Discharged Union Soldiers and Sailors of Clearfield county will be held in Curwensville on Wednesday, June 20. It is earnestly desired that all members will be present at the business meeting in the opera house in the afternoon.

All veterans and their friends are warmly invited to join in spending a pleasant and profitable day.

One of the Pioneers Gone.

Wilson R. Hoover, died Thursday afternoon at his home in Boggs township, near Clearfield, at the age of 78 years. Deceased had been a resident of Clearfield county all his life and will be buried in Center cemetery, between Clearfield and Curwensville, within half a mile of the home where he was born. This is the first death that has occurred in the Hoover family in forty-two years.

AT BIRMINGHAM.

Baccalaureate Sermon By Rev. Laurie, of Bellefonte.

Many bright eyes met the welcome sunshine of Sunday at the windows of Mountain seminary, and as the morning grew warm and lovely all hearts responded and Birmingham blossomed out in new suits of many hues to match the bright costumes of the gay procession which wended its way, headed by a company of alumnae, to the Presbyterian church.

There was a rustle of expectation all over the audience until the senior class, like a company of brides arrayed for their first outing, filed into the seats reserved before the exquisite bank of pink laurel which concealed the pulpit platform.

After the opening exercises in which, by request of the students, the Rev. H. H. Henry gave fervent thanks for the glorious sunshine after the long season of clouds and storm, the baccalaureate sermon, a magnificent discourse, eloquent, earnest, graphic, tender, and above all, practical, was delivered by the Rev. William Laurie, D. D., of Bellefonte, Pa.

The reverend gentleman declined us the use of his manuscript, but we will try to give the many friends of the seminary a modest abstract of our own. His topic was "The King's Daughter." The text, Psalm xiv: 13, "The king's daughter is all glorious within; her clothing is of wrought gold." The introductory was in praise of beauty—the beauty of God's creation, in meadows and fields, mountains and sea, in grass and flowers. He carried his audience in fancy to his native Scotland and showed them lochs and hills clothed in purple heather and garnished with the bonnie broom, and on to the majestic Matterhorne in the Alps.

He then showed the greater beauty of the little child with its intellect and love, more precious in the home than the glory of the stars. He pictured the child in her growing girlhood, her mature, perfect, well proportioned womanhood, crowned with the beauty of the indwelling Christ—lovely, glorious even when youth's beauty had departed, when labor had deformed the slender hands and sorrow and pain had furrowed the once rosy cheeks and blanched the hair. He spoke of her gentle, Christ like ministry to the sinning and suffering; the life work of this "King's daughter, all glorious within," until every heart glowed with tender memories of mother and wife, and sister and daughter, or breathed an earnest aspiration for a life so crowned.

Married in Philadelphia.

On Wednesday evening May 30th, 7 o'clock, Mr. Joseph Undercoffer, the genial assistant baggage master at the Pennsylvania railroad station in this place, was united in marriage with Miss Sallie F. VanZant, of Philadelphia, the ceremony taking place at the M. E. parsonage in the latter city corner of 19th and Poplar streets, being performed by the Rev. Buckley Burns, pastor. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of Mr. Wesley Batty, corner of Vine and 60½ streets, West Philadelphia. The happy couple returned to Bellefonte on Thursday arriving here at 8.45 that evening, and were at once driven to Mr. Undercoffer's home on Willowbank street, where they will settle down to regular married life and housekeeping. Congratulations are now in order.

Deny Being in Distress.

The following from Snow Shoe is self explanatory:

EDITOR DAILY NEWS: It has been reported here that a committee from the Snow Shoe miners have canvassed Bellefonte for aid for the Snow Shoe miners and have used the proceeds for their own benefit.

Would say that there has been nobody authorized to solicit aid for the miners, and when it is necessary to do so, they will be supplied with credentials by the miners organization. Kindly publish this in your next issue and oblige,

SECRETARY MINE WORKERS.

Ordered to Be in Readiness.

Colonel Burchfield, commanding officer of the Fifth regiment, National Guards, yesterday sent out telegrams to the captains of companies, telling them to hold their commands in readiness for "quick work." This order evidently has connection with the threatening condition of affairs in the bituminous coal region and instructions from Harrisburg calling the regiment under arms would not be surprising.

Three Woodsmen Shot.

A riot occurred at Troutville, seven miles from DuBois, Wednesday night during which James Cochran, Edward McKee, Jr., "Pinkey" Sample, Ed. Mulholland and Jack Sweeney, were badly injured. Three of the men were shot and the others were cut with knives. James Cochran was shot through the body, and it is thought he will die.

One Year Later.

Wednesday one year ago occurred the wreck of Walter L. Main's circus, near Vail station on the Tyrone and Clearfield railroad, wherein James Stranger, a clown was killed. On Tuesday his mother, Margaret Stranger, instituted suit against the Pennsylvania railroad company to recover $20,000 damages for his death.

Miss Emma B. Budinger, daughter of Mr. T. B. Budinger, of Snow Shoe, was one of the graduating class at the Mountain Seminary at Birmingham this week.

Editor N. S. Bailey, of the Centre Magnet, and groceryman C. C. Shuey, went to Williamsport Tuesday afternoon to be present at the prohibition State Convention.

Mr. Isaac Gates was one of Gatesburg's progressive citizens who transacted business in Bellefonte on Tuesday. Before leaving Bellefonte he enrolled his name as a subscriber to the REPUBLICAN.

Mr. Reuben Smith, with his wife and baby, of Emporium, are visiting Mr. S's parents at Milesburg. Reub. at one time worked as solicitor and collector in this office, and proved himself a very popular young man.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Miller, of Lock Haven, came to Bellefonte Saturday to visit Mr. M's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan E. Miller, on Reynolds avenue. From here Mr. and Mrs. Miller will go to Carlisle to visit Mrs. M's parents.

Mr. E. H. McCleary, a street car conductor of Pittsburg, Pa., has been in Bellefonte the past few days visiting acquaintances. Mr. McCleary was for a number of years editor and proprietor of the Kane, Pa., Observer, and is a first-rate fellow throughout.

Mr. Charles Hughes, son of Prof. James P. Hughes, of the Bellefonte Academy, departed on Saturday for Baltimore where he has accepted a very promising position in a large and prominent real estate office. The situation is an excellent one and promises to turn out exceedingly good for Charlie in the future.

Mr. W. M. Stover, who for some time past has been living on Reynolds avenue, this place, has decided to move to Millheim. We are sorry Mr. Stover has come to this conclusion as he is a good citizen and has been a very good member of the Bellefonte band, from which organization he will be very much missed.

Mr. John Rishel, Sr., of Benner township, intends to build a large reservoir on the north side of his barn. This reservoir will be ten feet deep, ten feet wide and twenty two feet long, and will be arched over with a stone wall. The mason work will be done by Mr. Charles H. Garis, who will make an excellent job of it.

Admitted to the Bar.

On Tuesday Mr. Hugh Taylor was admitted to the bar (not the hotel bar, but the lawyer's bar) and can now be termed a full-pledged attorney-at-law, with the right to practice his profession in Centre county, and with any and all other rights that belong to a lawyer in good standing, not even excepting the right to attach "Esq." to his name. Hugh is a bright young man, one who is virtually self-educated and self-made. He fought his own way through both school and college; he read law while going to school and his examination recently passed was one of the best that has ever been passed by any law student. Hugh is not only a good student, but he is also a very popular young man. So popular that at the recent spring election he was elected tax collector by a handsome majority over his republican apponent. We predict for him a great success as a lawyer, and expect some day to hear of him as the leading attorney at the Bellefonte bar.

From Hon. W. B. McNider, G. P. A., Sioux City and Northern Railway.

I am to-day in receipt of "Glimpses of America." It is a thing of beauty, and, to one who has visited many of the points of interest you illustrate so beautifully, it is invaluable. I congratulate you upon the success you have achieved in this publication. It is the finest work of the kind I have ever had the pleasure of seeing.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

What the Borough Fathers Performed Monday Night.

Council convened Monday evening with members Miller, Williams, Hilibish, Gerberich, Beaver, Brockerhoff and Garman present. President Miller called the council to order and clerk Isaac Mitchell read the minutes of the last regular and the special sessions of council which were approved.

Harry Keller and C. P. Hewes, Esqs., were present to request council to grant permission to Mr. Lyman Corman to build a booth in the diamond, at some convenient and suitable place, for the sale of confectionery. Privilege was granted on condition that the property owners did not object.

John Sheffler appeared representing citizens of the West ward living near the car works, requesting council to erect a boardwalk along South Potter street. The Street committee was instructed to ascertain the cost of same and report at the next regular meeting.

The Street committee reported everything in good condition, and asked instructions as to what should be done with the Lamb street bridge, it not being considered in a safe condition for travel.

The Water committee reported everything running smoothly at the works; but, being out of coal, it is necessary to resort to the use of other and various kinds of fuel to furnish the necessary supply. They complained, however, of the extravagant waste of water when the people certainly know the difficulty and expense of keeping the reservoir filled.

There were reports from none of the other committees, excepting the Finance committee, which reported the balance due the treasurer as $5,605.92.

Councilman Garman made a motion instructing Clement Dale, Esq., borough solicitor, to petition the Court for viewers to be appointed on the Lamb street bridge. The motion was adopted.

No other business being before council the following bill were approved, and the meeting adjourned:

"God's Finger Touched Her and She Slept."

On Tuesday noon, May 22nd, in the 61st year of her age, while the shadows were lengthened out, the spirit of Mrs. John Dunkleberger returned to the God who gave it. Mrs. Dunkleberger lived at Pleasant Gap and was a christian lady, being devoted to her religious duties. She was a kind and devoted wife and a loving mother. She left a husband and seven sons to mourn her departure. May they all be gathered as one united family at the throne of God in the great Judgment day.

She saw a hand you could not see,
Which beckoned her away;
She heard a voice you could not hear,
Which would not let her stay.

Dear mother, in the heavenly land,
How many eyes are dim;
But Jesus loved you better
And took you home to him.

Where the twilight skies will brighten,
Never more to shade;
And earth's faded flower freshen,
Where death can never fade.

Oh! mother sweetly sleeping,
We drop the fallen tear—
Because our hearts are heavy,
Because we miss you here.

And in our home-wide circle
We can only watch and pray
For the glories of your spotless life,
To shine upon our way.

To meet thee in the morning
Of joy, and peace, and love;
By the right hand of Jesus—
When the roll is called above.

Farewell, mother; farewell, mother;
Thou hast loved us long and well.
How we miss thee—none can tell,—
Jesus called thee, "All is well."
